

His Calling Card Identified Him Quite Simply as 'Flyer'

Lee Sterios Loved Gliding

By FRANK LAPIERRE

"How can anyone not get enthused about this sport. It doesn't pollute the air. It's quiet. And it uses only nature's energy, the wind."

The young, muscular man of 28 then took a short run to the edge of a 700-foot high cliff and soared like a gull into the skies.

Lee Sterios loved the sport of flying on a hang glider.

His business cards were imprinted with the name of the company: Chandelle Corp., Golden, Colorado.

And under Lee's name was the simple identification, "Flyer."

That day on the windswept sand dunes of Fort Funston, high above the roaring Pacific surf, Lee recited his credo:

"Aviation in itself is not inherently dangerous. But to an even greater degree than the sea, it is terribly unforgiving of any carelessness, incapacity or neglect."

The sport of hang gliding is perfectly safe if proper safeguards are taken, Sterios contended.

These safeguards include, "Using only gliders, or kites, in perfect condition; crash helmets and, most important, having the proper training," Sterios said.

Lee Sterios was considered one of the five top hang gliders in the nation.

In a sport that attracts thousands of persons annually, that's a pretty high rank.

Today, Lee Sterios is dead.

He died when the kite he was flying crashed while being tested off the cliffs near Fort Funston Friday.

What happened, his fellow workers at Chandelle Corp. in Daly City were asked? How could Sterios have died in such a crash when he was considered "super careful"?

Lee was careful, said a fellow flyer who asked not to be identified.

The kite appeared to be perfectly safe.

Lee took it up for a flight and everything was apparently normal until he put it into a dive. The kite picked up speed and the vehicle failed when its wings appeared to collapse less than 75 feet from the beach.

He died shortly after being admitted to the hospital, suffering from massive internal injuries.

In February 1974, we wrote:

"Like Richard Bach's 'Jonathan Livingston Seagull,' they soar soundlessly through the skies with seemingly little effort, finding the air currents that whisk them to breathtaking heights. Then, slowly, they wing their way back toward earth."

Lee Sterios told this newspaper he fancied himself a modern-day Icarus, winged hero of Greek mythology.

Icarus flew too close to the sun and his feathers melted away, causing him to plunge to the ground — and his death.

Lee Sterios . . . soaring like a seagull

This is the story:

Hang Gliding Crash Kills 1

A Pacifica hang gliding teacher died Friday three hours after the new hang glider he was testing "folded under him," according to the Daly City Fire Department.

Lee Sterios, 31, of 944 Corona Drive in Pacifica, crashed to the beach below the craggy Fort Funston about 3:30 p.m. when the new craft which he had been testing reportedly started to come apart.

He was a teacher at Chandelle San Francisco, a hang gliding sales and instruction company in Daly City. Sterios suffered back, leg and internal injuries, and Daly City firemen, with the assistance of San Francisco's paramedics, tried to administer first aid on the beach because it was too risky to move him.

Later, Sterios was picked up by the Coast Guard and transferred to Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame, where he died in surgery.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Sterios of 2528 24th Ave. in San Francisco.

Hiring: 'Frost', Not 'Freeze'?

Daly City placed a freeze on hiring in an effort to save money less than three years ago when the budget exceeded anticipated revenues by about $500,000.

It was more like a "frost" rather than a "deep freeze," judging by recent requests from various department heads in city government asking for more personnel in recent weeks.

In the last three weeks the council, in split votes, has agreed to fill three jobs.

The requests have visibly irked Councilman Victor Kyriakis.

"The purpose of this freeze was to save the city money. Now staff is asking me to make decisions on whether we need an apprentice maintenance man to pump gas more than we need a utility worker in the electrical department," said Kyriakis at Monday's council meeting, when asked to hire two more employees.

City Engineer David Macabee said there is "a very great need" for another employee in the city's Electrical Division.

There is work that must be done and no one to do it, was the consensus of both Macabee and Assistant City Manager Ray Letsinger. Macabee told the council the Electrical Department actually saves the city money by performing maintenance on certain street lights part of the time, and on other electrical jobs the remainder.

The hiring of the electrician passed by a split 3-2 vote, with Kyriakis voting against the measure.

Hiring of a dispatcher for the Police Department passed unanimously minutes later.

It was explained that at present there exists several vacancies within the Police Department and in the department's dispatch room.

When a dispatcher is off on sick leave, a regular police officer must be used in the dispatch room.

This creates shortages of needed officers on the street to fight crime.

Letsinger was instructed by Mayor Anthony Giammona to screen future hiring requests and report back to the council in three months.

Firm Chosen to Audit Books of Scavengers

By FRANK LAPIERRE

The internationally known auditing firm of Ernst and Ernst will conduct an audit of the Daly City Scavenger Co. beginning within two weeks.

Monday, the City Council of Daly City awarded the company the audit contract, which is expected to be completed by mid-November.

Assistant City Manager Ray Letsinger told the council the firm has agreed to review the company's records at a price not to exceed $2,500.

The seemingly low price for such a well known auditing firm, prompted Councilman William Schu-macher to state, "I just can't believe the price."

But Letsinger assured the council the audit would be complete and thorough.

It also was pointed out the firm had complete authority to audit all company records, including the company's "Serv-U-Debris Box" operations.

It had been earlier charged by irate citizens in the wake of a council-granted collection rate increase that Serv-U actually was making a substantial profit from its operations and was owned by the same six partners who owned the Daly City Scavenger Co., which reflected losses in its operations.

The council approved the collection hike and public demands were made that a complete audit of the company books be made by other than the Richard T. Dwyer Co.

Dwyer has audited the city's books for the past several years.

Critics have charged a conflict exists because Dwyer does both the city's books and scavenger company books.

Further, the scavenger company operates the Mussel Rock dump which is owned by the city.

Bowing to public demand, the city solicited "outside" auditors to review the scavenger company books in an apparent effort to justify their earlier action granting the rate hike.

Six of the country's most prestigious companies expressed interest in the proposal — Arthur Andersen and Co.; Ernst and Ernst; Haskins and Sells; Peat Marwick Mitchell and Co.; Arthur Young and Co.; and Price Waterhouse and Co.

2 Administrators To Leave JESD

The Jefferson Elementary School District has lost two administrators — to the long commute from San Jose.

Assistant Supt. Jerry Houseman has resigned effective Sept. 29 and will continue working at the district until Oct. 15.

He will be taking over as assistant superintendent of the San Carlos Elementary School District, which will save him about half the time he now spends commuting between his home in San Jose and Daly City.

Houseman said he had not been looking for another job but, since his children are involved in athletics in the San Jose area and his wife is finishing up nursing studies, he could not turn this one down when it came up.

He held his JESD position 15 months.

Another administrator, Woodrow Wilson principal Michael O'Kane resigned his position Monday and will become principal of Jollyman School in the Cupertino Elementary School District.

"I'm a chuckler and it kind of fits," he said.

O'Kane will be replaced by Pershing Elementary School principal Dick Meagles. His resignation is effective Thursday.

O'Kane said he welcomes the opportunity to work in the Cupertino district, a large elementary school district that has the additional advantage of being nearer to his home in San Jose.

He was with JESD two years.

DC Unemployment Rate Above National Average

Daly City's unemployment rate is almost two per cent higher than the national average, Assistant City Manager Ray Letsinger revealed Monday.

Letsinger made the revelation while asking for permission from the City Council to seek special funds for public works projects under the $2 billion Federal Public Works Employment Act of 1976.

Six projects that both Letsinger and City Engineer Dave Macabee feel meet criteria needed to receive the special monies were outlined in the request.

The projects include work at the Gellert Park Clubhouse; the Corporation Yard; a parking lot at Edgeworth and 92nd Street, Gellert Park gym; a ramp for handicapped persons using city hall; and, remodeling of restrooms at city hall to meet standards for handicapped persons.

Emphasis of the program — approved by Congress, but not yet signed by President Ford — is to provide jobs in the areas of high unemployment.

Letsinger said Daly City meets the high unemployment factors outlined in the program application especially in the construction fields.

"Staff feels that although there is uncertainty as to whether funds will be appropriated for this legislation, Daly City would be better off by assuming that the program will be funded and to proceed with necessary applications," Letsinger explained.

The funding will be appropriated on a first-come, first-served basis, Letsinger said.

Hearing on Modifying Ottoboni Sentence Is Set

A judge who quietly modified the sentence of Colma City Councilman Raymond Dominic Ottoboni earlier this month has scheduled an open court hearing for Nov. 5 to hear an attorney's request that Raymond John Ottoboni's sentence be modified.

Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo scheduled the hearing Friday.

On August 20, Judge Piombo sentenced the 71-year-old councilman to 50 hours of public service work for his misdemeanor plea for interfering with the election process.

On his own volition, the judge soon thereafter ordered a probation officer to call Ottoboni and tell him he had decided to eliminate the public service.

Neither the defense or prosecution was told.

At the same time in August, Piombo sentenced Raymond J. Ottoboni, the town's former police chief, to 90 days in county jail for his plea of no contest to felony interfering with the election process.

Rifle-Toting Runaway Sought

Daly City police are hunting for a 15-year-old Daly City boy who ran away from home Monday night after an argument with his parents.

The boy allegedly took his father's 30-30 rifle after he fled his Westlake home about 8 p.m. through a bedroom window, police said.

A few minutes later, a boy armed with a rifle held up Noel Brag inside the garage of his Wildwood Avenue home and fled after the victim handed him $1.

Less than 15 minutes later, Richard Agrimonti, answered the front door at his Skyline

Drive home and was greeted by a youth carrying a rifle.

The rifle-toting boy demanded Agrimonti's watch.

Instead of complying with the request, Agrimonti slammed the door in the youth's face and fell to the floor.

He told police he heard the youth running down the sidewalk away from his home.

Police described the wanted boy as having shoulder length light brown hair, 5-ft. 4-in. in height, and wearing Levi pants and a Levi jacket.

Super Cargo Jet Of Future Could Carry 306 Tons

By GEORGE GOLDING

Aircraft double the size of present jumbo jets may be in store for the world's airports in the next decade or so, airfield managers were told Thursday in San Francisco.

Meeting for the 29th annual convention of Airport Operators Council International, the airport bosses heard W.E. Parsons, chief program engineer for McDonnell Douglas, describe the planes their future might hold.

Parsons said a huge new cargo plane called the Spanloader is on the drawing boards, and airport operators should consider it in their growth plans.

The Spanloader would weigh 1.35 million pounds, nearly twice the weight of a Boeing 747, and carry a payload of more than 306 tons.

If built as designed, he said, such a plane would have a wingspan of 140 feet.

That may give you operators with 150-foot-wide runways some problems," he admitted.

Parsons said a stretched version of his company's jumbo trijet DC-10 would be in production in the 1980s, and that an American supersonic transport could follow.

The engineer said such an SST is not likely until after the year 2,000 however. He predicted it will carry 500 passengers distances up to 5,000 miles.

Michael Wilde, British Aircraft Corp. project director for the British-French Concorde, said that aircraft has been winning customer acceptance

Supervisors OK Motorcycle Park

Upholding a recommendation of the County Planning Commission, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Tuesday approved a 4 to 1 vote a development permit for a motorcycle park on the Knob Hill Ranch near Pescadero.

David McGuire, attorney for Robert and Dolores Cagd, owners of 1,118 acres of property adjacent to the motorcycle park site, said following the board action that he "most likely" will file suit challenging issuance of the permit.

Appearing before the board to present the Cards' appeal of the Planning Commission action, McGuire contended that there had been a "substantial departure" in the concept plan between the time it was presented and the permit approved by the commission.

It was a violation by hindsight, he asserted.

The Planning Department staff report noted that the original proposal to operate the park as a private facility for some 400 club members was made two years ago in the original application and later changed after conditions of the Williamson Act amendment became known.

Don Ivan, happy over the results of his long effort to secure permission to develop and operate the park, promised to live up to the 36 physical design and operating conditions imposed by the Planning Commission "if that is what it takes to prove the operation," although he termed the conditions "a bit of overkill."

County Planning Director Donald A. Woolfe assured the board that the conditions will be enforced. Staff members will monitor the operation at unannounced times, he stated.

The park will be allowed no more than 15 cyclists on the site at one time, with the exception of monthly events when from 100 to 300 cyclists and spectators will be allowed.

Voting against issuance of the permits was Supervisor Jean Fassler, who stated she had concerns that cyclists unable to get into the park would "ride around the area," and the fact that "there is no answer yet" to the water problem in the area.

Board Chairman William H. Royer said he was "convinced" of the need for such a facility, stating that "it deserves a sincere effort to make it work."

Supervisor Edward J. Baccocco Jr. said he concurred with the Planning Commission finding that there is social concern that a legal place be provided for users of a motorcycle park. He noted the past invasions by motorcycleists in the Bear Gulch - Wunderlich Park area adjacent to Woodside.

The permit conditions provide for operation of the park on Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, plus 12 holidays a year (except Christmas and Easter), with hours of operation from 8 a.m. to dusk, except Sunday, which will have a 9 a.m. opening time.

3 'Models' For Chope Approved

Three "models" which the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors feel should be followed in estimating the cost of modernizing Chope Community Hospital in San Mateo were approved Tuesday by the board.

Supervisor Edward J. Baccocco Jr. drafted the models, stating the board, and not the administrative staff, should generally define the models a consultant will follow in the cost estimating.

In his minimum, moderate and maximum models, Baccocco forecasts a generalized cost range of from $1 million to $20 million.

The models and cost estimates submitted by Baccocco are:

- Minimum - those improvements necessary to meet licenser and accreditation requirements this year and in the foreseeable future, $1 million to $5 million.
- Moderate - Those improvements required to enhance the efficiency of the hospital and to upgrade the quality of service to satisfy current standards, such as in psychiatry and outpatient services, $5 million to $10 million.
- Maximum - If the 1956 structure is unusable, this model assumes the present building would be phased out and a new hospital constructed by increments, $10 million to $20 million.

Lucrative 'Oriental City' Proposal Land Swap Quarrel Erupts

By JANET PARKER

A South San Francisco councilman says he suspects that Brisbane officials knew when they proposed a land swap that the land they would gain is the possible site of a $38 million Oriental City.

Brisbane City Manager Clark Smithson denied any previous knowledge of the specific proposal.

Councilman William Borba said Brisbane was "in a great rush" to initiate the land swap earlier this year and South City staff members were initially willing.

Since then, Borba said, South San Francisco staff members have cooled off and are taking a closer look at what the swap would involve, and the advantages and disadvantages for South San Francisco.

The enthusiasm of Brisbane makes one wonder, Borba said, adding, "This disturbs me quite a bit."

Officials in both cities learned two weeks ago that San Francisco developer Edward Seto is proposing an "Oriental City" on the 29 acres of Sierra Point landfill in question.

It would include pavilions from 12 Asian countries, with shops, restaurants and cultural events.

Brisbane had sought the 29 acres to include in its proposed convention center - marina complex just adjacent to Sierra Point.

Developer Byron Lasky has a contract to buy both the Brisbane and South San Francisco lands to include in the marina project.

Borba said he objects to learning of the project through newspaper stories.

Someone, he said, must have known about the Seto proposal earlier.

The city in which the Oriental City is located, provided it becomes a reality, would gain a great deal of property and sales tax revenue annually, probably well into six figures, Seto said.

Smithson said he learned of the specific proposal the same day that the South San Francisco staff and council did - at a meeting of both cities to discuss the land swap earlier this month at South San Francisco City Hall.

Smithson said he has received many inquiries in the last year about the property and the progress of the marina development - including several phone calls from Seto.

"I was only aware of some fellow who called me every couple of months to ask how the project was coming along," Smithson said.

Never in those conversations, Smithson added, was an Oriental City discussed.

"I had indicated to everybody that I didn't want to talk to anybody about any sort of development, because I didn't know what would happen with the land," Smithson said.

Lasky has said he has not committed the development of that land to Seto or any other party. He said it's only one of several projects he's considering.

South San Francisco's acting city manager, Frank Addiego, said the staff does not agree with Borba that Brisbane had advance knowledge of the Seto proposal before the land swap was proposed.

However, he said he too, would have liked knowing about the proposal much earlier in the land swap discussions.

"We are surprised and disturbed about it," Addiego said.

South San Francisco and Brisbane, in view of the possible value of the Sierra Point land to both cities, now are considering a joint powers agreement or other method to supervise development of Sierra Point.

Smithson said he isn't even impressed with the design of the Oriental City as proposed in a 35-page booklet complete with sketches of pavilions.

However, he said he has always encouraged recreation or tourist facility on the Sierra Point land.

Homeowners' Applications

San Mateo County Assessor Jack Estes is now accepting applications from homeowners on public assistance for homeowners' exemption, in accordance with new legislation recently signed into law by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

Previously, homeowners who were on welfare were not eligible for the exemption.

To be eligible, an applicant must have owned and occupied his residence on March 1, 1976, Estes said. The allowance is not applicable to rental properties, he noted.

Claim forms and information regarding the new program may be obtained from the Assessor's Office in the old courthouse, 2222 Broadway, Redwood City, or by phoning the Assessor's Office.

SSF District Picks Stand-Ins

Two South San Francisco school administrators were temporarily promoted this week to compensate for the appointment of Assistant Supt. of Instruction Tom Gaffney as acting superintendent.

The appointments, however, were made over the objection of Trustee Ken Austin, who said he disliked the selection process.

The Board of Trustees appointed Robert Parr, a secondary education specialist, to the position of acting principal of Baden High School.

Baden High principal Sheldon Winston was appointed acting assistant superintendent of instruction.

They, along with Gaffney, will serve in those positions until a new superintendent is chosen by the board to replace Dr. Paul Nielsen, who left the post Aug. 31.

Austin said he objects to the entire process because it requires all three men to receive a pro-rated salary increase for each day they serve in the temporary jobs.

Gaffney, who received $31,330 as assistant superintendent of instruction, will be paid on the basis of the superintendent's salary, $38,737 a year.

Parr and Winston also must be compensated.

A new superintendent is not expected to be on the job until late December or early January.

Austin said he preferred the appointment of Joe Smith, associate superintendent, as acting superintendent.

Smith's job description already assigns him to supervision of assistant superintendents, Austin said. As a result, the district would not have been required to compensate him to serve as acting superintendent.

"I am nothing but pleased with either of these gentlemen," Austin said. "I am just displeased with the process of the temporary appointment."

Austin, along with Board President Tom Henkle, also voted against the appointment of Gaffney as acting superintendent earlier this month.

Cooking time in total 18 to 22 mins. per pound depending on degree of doneness desired. Let roast set in serving platter 5 to 7 mins. before slicing. Salt and pepper to taste! If desired — rosemary, thyme, garlic powder or Italian seasoning may be added!

You may also place this roast on a spit over charcoal if desired — allow 1 1/2 lb. meat per serving!

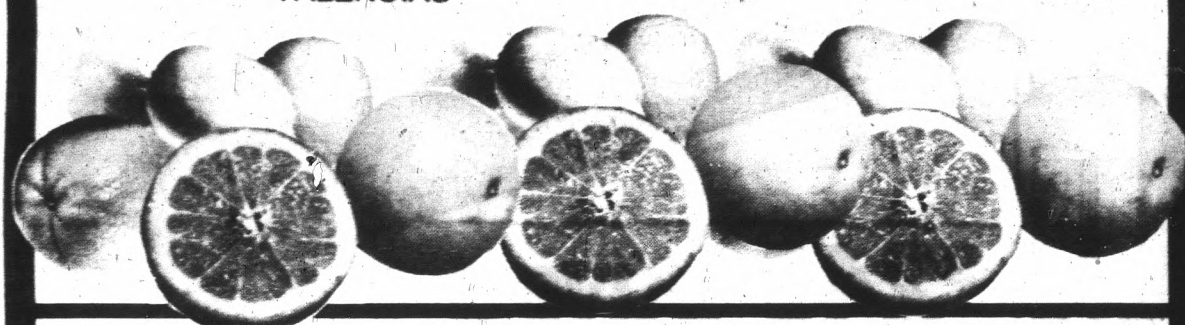

Serve with an intriguing Pinot Noir.

READY FOR THE FAIR

Leadership for Scouts Taught

Leadership Training is on the agenda for the Daly City Girl Scout Association with the beginning session scheduled for Oct. 5 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. at Hope Lutheran Church, 55 San Fernando Way, Daly City.

Registration for this course designed for new leaders and those who may have started a troop late last school year and not had the benefit of this course which is number L-22 is through the Brisbane

Girl Scout Office, 58 Cypress Lane (467-3330) where further information is available.

Local training coordinator is Mrs. Stanley Nowicki.

New additions to the wday City Area Girl Scout Association Service Team include Lois Manbert who is serving in a coordinating capacity and Donna Barnes as association treasurer.

Calendar orders for the 1977 Girl Scout calendar are now being accepted by calendar chairwoman Karen Rodgers (1124 Shibley, Daly City, 992-2527), from troop leaders and troop calendar sale chairmen.

Troop leaders urgently need troop calendar sales and parents are urged to consider this one-month long position on the troop committees of local troops as they register their girls with troop committee chairmen and leaders.

"Less than 50 cases of 100 calendars per case have been ordered for the Daly City-Collina Area Association," according to Mrs. Rodgers, so girls and adults are urged to get their orders together early.

This full-color illustrated lowest cost calendar will be available from local Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts in November and makes an excellent mailable gift for relatives for Christmas.

Adult Bookstore Opening

Battle Lines Drawn in SSF

Earl Kuhns of San Francisco will open an adult bookstore in downtown South San Francisco, despite the adamant and official disapproval of the City Council.

Kuhns — part-owner of the Frenchy's K&T bookstore in San Francisco — will be fixing up the empty building at 107 Grand Ave. this week, his attorney, Joseph Rhine, said Thursday.

He still plans to appeal in court asking that the decisions of the South San Francisco Planning Commission and City Council be ruled unconstitutional.

That court case is expected by both the city and Kuhns eventually to be determined in the California Supreme Court.

Rhine said he is expecting Kuhns to be arrested when he opens the doors of his business in the middle of South San Francisco's downtown shopping district.

However, he said the city had committed an unconstitutional act when it turned down Kuhns' application two weeks ago.

"Therefore the court — no matter what criminal charges the city brings against Mr. Kuhns — will throw out those criminal charges, because he can't be violating an unconstitutional act," Rhine said.

Kuhns already has filed a fictitious business name statement in the San Mateo County clerk's office — a necessary procedure prior to opening his store.

Once the statement is filed, Rhine said, he believes his client can legally open his bookstore.

"If he (Kuhns) is arrested prior to the time I file an appeal, I will add the arrest as one of the other elements of damage he is suffering as a result of the City Council," Rhine said.

Rhine said that under current state laws and a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling, cities do have the right to examine the effect of an application upon land use and zoning ordinances.

However, he said, that ruling also stipulates that cities should designate where certain businesses can operate within the city limits.

"I thought the council would be astute enough to follow that ruling," Rhine said. He said he thought the council would determine where Kuhns can apply for an adult bookstore in the city and where he can not.

"Since they did not, he's not under obligation to file one thousand applications until he hits the right spot," Rhine said.

City officials were stunned Thursday afternoon when they learned of Kuhns' plans.

No one was immediately prepared to comment.

However, City Atty. John Noonan said this morning that the city's action met the requirements of the Supreme Court decision.

The city merely established locational regulations which only incidentally affect First Amendment rights," Noonan said.

The applicant, Noonan said, has a remedy under the Government Code to review and test the validity of the city's action in court.

"My position is that if the applicant proceeds with the use at 107 Grand before such a court review, the city's first action will be to apply to the court for an injunction," Noonan said.

Noonan said the city will make a surveillance of what is happening at 107 Grand Ave.

Kuhns, he said, will not be arrested immediately. His action if an injunction is granted will determine what is to happen next, Noonan said.

Since Kuhns applied for a use permit in January, city officials and residents have been preparing for a legal battle.

Petitions signed by more than 5,000 residents protesting the application were submitted to the City Council.

One of the women who led the petition drive, Barbara Schong, said it's evident that South San Franciscans do not want that kind of store in their city.

"I am certain there will be a public outcry," said Mrs. Schong after learning of Kuhns' plans to open despite the city's disapproval.

"We said we would fight him every step of the way and we will," she said.

The main concern of the residents, she said, is that the City Council continues to fight the application all the way to the Supreme Court if necessary.

LIONS WHITE CANE DAYS

FRIDAY, OCT. 1 THRU SATURDAY, OCT. 2

Reading Braille looks easy... but takes a long time to learn! It can bring much joy and happiness to both young and old alike! Your contributions can help!

Eye examinations are essential to detect early signs of eye problems. Your contributions can help some unfortunate youngsters to retain his eyesight.

SKYLIONS OF DALY CITY

Dear Friend and Contributor,

The Daly City Skylions are again asking your support in the forthcoming White Cane Days Drive. Each year we ask our community for funds and old eyeglasses to aid us in our work to help the blind and near blind. There are people in our community that are unable to help themselves. That is why WE are INVOLVED.

All funds raised in this drive by our club, are spent locally. Like all groups doing charitable work, finances are continually being used up. The general public aid is needed. Your donation is used for sight conservation and is tax deductible.

WE ARE PEOPLE WHO NEED PEOPLE.

Sincerely yours,

Del C. Wilson

NEW WAYS TO PREVENT BLINDNESS

The fight against glaucoma — the second leading cause of blindness — was advanced this year by the introduction of a simple screening device that paramedics and technicians — not just doctors — can use. It makes early detection of glaucoma possible for more people, increasing the chances of halting the disease before it robs them of their sight. And glaucoma sufferers, who previously had to put drops in their eyes four times a day, can now insert a plastic wafer under their eyelid that dispenses the correct dose of medicine automatically and needs to be replaced only periodically.

Looking at SP's Commuter Service Attitude

By FRANK LAPIERRE
Analysis

Southern Pacific Railway Company's desire to drop its money-losing Peninsula commuter service is a well-known fact.

SP president B. F. Biagini has asked that the company be allowed to get "completely" out of the passenger end of the rail business between San Jose and San Francisco.

As a company policy, however, this attitude is rather recent.

Less than six years ago, the company plunged millions of dollars into additional commuter rolling stock, built a new terminal in downtown San Francisco for passengers and spent time and money trying to attract new patrons.

In 1967, SP spent $3 million for additional double-decked gallery cars for Peninsula Commuters.

In January 1971, the company claimed it was carrying 12,000 passengers daily on the commuter runs, using 22 trains on the 47-mile route.

Recent figures reveal SP's commute loads have dwindled to about 8,000 per day.

Now the company, which showed total operating revenues of $1.65 billion in 1975 (down slightly from $1.71 billion in 1974) has offered a novel approach to getting itself out of the Peninsula passenger business.

The SP has offered to buy and give away — absolutely free — 1,000 vans. The total cost to SP of the deal would be about $6 million.

SP officials said they believe the vans are the answer to providing service to commuters on the Peninsula.

Alan D. DeMoss, company vice president, announced the proposal at a press conference in San Francisco on Aug. 31.

This van pool system is being pushed by the federal and state governments as a means toward better utilization of vehicles and energy, in addition to cutting down on air pollution. DeMoss claimed.

In fact, the federal government has issued a booklet on forming not only van pools, but also car pools, to cut down on the use of gasoline, he pointed out.

Recently, the state Department of Transportation (CalTrans) also began placing booklets and computer data cards throughout the state to encourage the establishment of vehicle pools.

However, neither of the government-sponsored programs even remotely suggests that car pools be used as a substitute for existing mass transit rail systems or buses.

Nor did any of the material distributed by SP support the idea of putting 1,000 more vehicles on the traffic choked roadways in San Mateo County and canceling out the SP trains.

According to a report on special review of commuter operations, issued Aug. 15, 1975, by Prige

Waterhouse & Co. on behalf of Southern Pacific Transportation Co. (SP), the cost of commuter operations is rising and revenues are falling.

The report is filled with facts, figures, graphs, descriptions and recommendations for the year ending Dec. 31, 1974.

Revenues on the commuter line have further declined since the report was issued, SP officials declare.

In 1974, SP recorded a loss of $5.3 million on its Peninsula commuter runs. The company projects a $9 million loss for 1976.

The company, which also is involved in the processed food market, forest products, chemicals, farm products, transportation equipment, metal products, paper products, ores, minerals and fuels, reported to its stockholders recently that its second quarter net income for 1976 was $30,995,000, or $1.16 a share — an increase of 30 percent from $23,771,000, for the same period in 1975.

A dramatic increase, however, was experienced in the first six months of 1976 when net earnings jumped to $46,179,000. This was compared with net earnings of $2,664,000 in the first half of 1975, the report explained. Last year, the overall economy was in sharp recession, and began to recover early this year.

Biagini's stockholders report told of operating losses in SP's Communications Company, and revenue declines in rail shipments of metal products, fruits and vegetables, ores and petroleum products, but did not mention reported losses on the Peninsula commuter run.

Andy Anderson, information officer for SP, says commuter line losses were not mentioned in the recent report because there had been no significant changes in the status of the commuter system.

"It's a chronic loser," Anderson says, referring to the commuter system.

In the face of these losses, is the "van-pool system" the answer to bailing out SP from its government-imposed commuter obligation?

Anderson says response to the proposal has been mixed, with longtime riders of SP opposing the measure and some newer commuters showing interest.

Opponents argue that the vans would provide transportation only for peak-hour commuters, but would offer no source of transportation to those hundreds who depend on SP to travel between Peninsula cities during the day.

Besides the many problems almost certain to arise over ownership of the vans, especially when a person decides he wants to relinquish his share or moves out of the area, there is the matter of insurance, general maintenance costs, who gets to use the vehicle on weekends, ad infinitum.

There also is the specter of another gasoline shortage in the future.

DeMoss says he feels, however, that the good points far outweigh the bad concerning the van-pool proposal.

For one thing, vans could go directly door-to-door collecting riders and taking them to their destination faster and cheaper, DeMoss says.

The van driver, unfortunately, would have to get up earlier to start his rounds and get home later after dropping off riders at the end of the day.

The driver also would be the last to report for work, inasmuch as he (or she) would have to park the van.

San Mateo County Transit District (SamTrans) General Manager John Mauro has called the van-pool proposal inadequate to meet the future needs of transportation on the Peninsula.

SamTrans is just now getting into high gear in the county and has started feeder bus service to SP stations.

Once the feeder buses begin full operation, an ever-increasing number of county residents will depend on the SP for transportation to and from the city, experts predict.

And once the public realizes it can depend on mass transit, private cars will be left home, thus cutting down on traffic, air pollution and conserving energy, Mauro says.

PHS Spokesman Sees Full Rabies Program

A spokesman for the Peninsula Humane Society today said that by Jan. 1, it is expected that all cities in San Mateo County will require rabies shots for dogs, or maintenance of protective levels.

This means, it was explained that generally, a dog should be vaccinated every two years.

The San Mateo city ordinance approved by the council this week states:

"It shall be unlawful for any person to keep a dog of over four months of age which does not have a medically current vaccination with a canine anti-rabies vaccine approved by the state department of public health and administered by or under the direction of a licensed veterinarian, or in a San Mateo County Health Department approved vaccination clinic." The law becomes effective Oct. 20.

Meanwhile, the humane society also has licenses available for cats. It serves as an identification tag, in the event a cat is lost or injured. The fee is $7.50 on a lifetime basis or $3 annually. Rates may go up next year.

In preparing for the passage of ordinances making vaccination of dogs mandatory, it was explained that dog licenses are not being issued now for animals without certification of vaccination.

This affects the dog population in Foster City, Redwood City, Pacifica, San Bruno, Daly City, Millbrae and now San Mateo.

It was pointed out that San Mateo County has not had a case of dog rabies in 40 years. However, it has had incidents of rabid bats and skunks, hence the push to require mandatory vaccinations.

Cats are exempt, it was explained, because it is impossible to enforce a vaccination law in the case of unlicensed and freely roaming animals. Funds from cat licenses go directly to support the humane society's wildlife program.

Additional cities are expected to pass a measure requiring dog vaccinations in October and November. It is estimated that 60 percent of the dogs in this county are licensed.

Day Care Center Open

The Creative Expression Day Care Center at 4496 Callan Blvd. in Daly City will hold an open house Friday between 3:30 and 9:30 p.m. A buffet dinner will be served. Donations are requested.

The center accepts persons between the ages of 2 and 21. Hours of operation are 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. For further details, contact Dipika Chatterjee at the center.

SHIPS PARADE

Vice Admiral Samuel L. Gravelly Jr., commander, U.S. Third Fleet has announced that a task group of 10 U.S. Navy ships will parade into San Francisco Bay Oct. 8, as part of the U.S. Navy's 201st Birthday and San Francisco's Twin Bicentennial celebration.

Sorenson Scores 15-Love

Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson, who historically has lost deputy district attorneys to private practice, is striking back.

Craig Parsons, a partner in a private practice with Foster City Atty. Dick Randolph, is joining Sorenson's staff Oct. 4 as a criminal prosecutor.

Parsons, 29, is a former Mills High School (Millbrae) tennis star. He won a tennis scholarship to Southern Methodist University, from which he received his law degree in 1972.

Parsons and his wife Nancy, a school teacher, reside in San Mateo.

Sorenson said Parsons today is among the top ranked amateur tennis players in Northern California.

CHP to 'Farm Out' Old Cars

Junked vehicles abandoned in remote locations on farms and ranches in San Mateo County will be removed by the California Highway Patrol in a cooperative venture with the County Farm Bureau.

Capt. C. W. Wynn, commander of the Highway Patrol's Redwood City area office, said today that farmers and ranchers with abandoned vehicles in hard-to-reach locations on their property may contact the CHP office to arrange for removal.

The new abatement effort is an extension of the statewide program started three years ago to facilitate removal of junked cars and trucks from public properties, such as beaches, parks, riverbanks and mountainous areas.

Wynn said more than 100,000 vehicles have been removed and salvaged, most of them by local governments which contract with the CHP, then are reimbursed from the Abandoned Vehicle Act fund which was created in 1973 by a $1 charge added to motor vehicle registration fees for one year.

Removals from farms and ranches is being initiated in four counties where the CHP handles the abatement program — San Mateo, Contra Costa, Napa and Shasta.

Ideas Asked on Housing

A series of four meetings to obtain community recommendations and comments concerning allocation of up to $4.2 million in the third year of the Housing and Community Development Act program in San Mateo County has been scheduled by the HCD Citizens Advisory Committee.

"Only through meaningful citizen participation can the decision-makers have sufficient information to avoid allocating funds according to pressures brought by special interest groups," Mrs. Helen Kerwin, chairwoman of the advisory group said.

The committee is seeking to determine what kinds of housing and community development projects residents of the unincorporated area and participating cities want and need, she said.

The meeting schedule: Monday, Sept. 27, 7:30 p.m., Information and Referral Center, 291 Hillside Blvd., South San Francisco.

Wednesday, Sept. 29, 7:30 p.m., Pescadero Elementary School, 620 North St.

Monday, Oct. 4, 7:30 p.m., Half Moon Bay Library, 620 Correas Ave.

Wednesday, Oct. 6, 7:30 p.m., Fair Oaks Community Center, 2600 Middlefield Road, Redwood City.

The County Board of Supervisors will hold a public hearing Thursday, Oct. 21, at 11 a.m. to discuss community development priorities and to allocate funds between the cities and the county.

The New Bookworms

Samuel Chandler

"What's new with the bookworms? I'm glad you asked. There is a new strain of glue that 'kills them dead.' It's the glue and the paste that the bookworms like. Paper isn't all that tasty to them nor the words interesting."

For book readers, however, there's a new Asimov. "More Tales of the Black Widowers," Double-day, 1976. Herein the biochemist who writes mysteries brings together a group of professional men who meet monthly for dinner and for subjecting their guests to stories that present problems that are to be solved.

Twelve stories are told at one of the meetings with Henry, the waiter, coming up with the most ingenious solutions. In "No Smoking" a personnel director tells of being deceived by a job applicant who turned out to be an embezzler. In "Unabridged" a rare stamp is missing which Henry finds on a crook who poses as a auto.

Other than writing and teaching biochemistry, Isaac Asimov finds time to lecture to large groups and to watch television in his own living room. Surely his wide variety of interests, coupled with his ability to devote himself makes him one of the nation's best writers.

You may be sure his new book, "More Tales of the Black Widowers," will be widely read and enjoyed by book readers even if bookworms do not fancy its glue.

Critics have found "More Tales of the Black Widowers" to be lightweight and clever. "Asimov at his best," writes one of them.

Isaac Asimov is a strange individual. Professionally the biochemist with a Ph.D. from Columbia and postdoctoral work in nucleic acids. As a writer he has produced over a hundred mystery or science fiction novels. He also has written many books of history, geography, medicine, travel and general science. His books for teen-agers are widely read. His "Guide to the Bible" has passed through several editions and fills in

'Natural' Birth Control Sessions at Mary's Help

The Mary's Help Hospital Natural Family Planning Center will hold its fourth series of classes in the Billings Ovulation Method of family planning beginning Oct. 21, at 7:30 p.m.

The Ovulation Method of family planning, developed by the husband-wife team of Australian physicians John and Evelyn Billings, relies upon the observation of cervical mucus to determine fertility.

Centers have been established in several major metropolitan areas of the United States and foreign countries.

Couples interested in learning the method are invited to attend the biweekly course, which will continue through Nov. 18.

Unlike the rhythm and/or temperature methods of family planning, the Billings Method gives advance warning of ovulation, which insures the detection of fertile and infertile periods.

According to Sister Arthur Gordon, clinic coordinator at Mary's Help Hospital, follow-up meetings on the Ovulation Method will be held at the Natural Family Planning Center on a weekly basis.

For more information on the classes, call Mary's Help Hospital at 992-4000, extension 434.

Looking forward to the cool days of fall? It seems as if blustery winds and autumn rain tend to make us all think, longingly, of a warm fireside and a good book. If you share that inclination, you won't want to miss the Fall Book Fair being sponsored by the Friends of the Daly City Library this Saturday in the Westlake Mall.

Mrs. Emmitt Tierney, publicity chairman for the "Friends", notes that the sale will feature a large selection of used books, records, and sheet music. New this year will be a silent auction. Auctions will be hourly beginning at 11 a.m.

The sale will begin at 10 a.m. and continue until 5 p.m.

Mrs. Jackie Norman, publicity chairman for the Holy Angels Women's Guild, reports that all sorts of games have been planned by the committee formed of members of the Women's Guild and the parish Men's Club. To make it more exciting a large selection of prizes has been assembled.

The evening will conclude with a buffet. Tickets, costing $1.50 per person, are now on sale.

MEMBERS OF THE Daly City Garden Club, still flushed with the success of the standard garden show in Serramonte Center earlier this month, will be meeting Oct. 5, for an interesting meeting featuring a miniature show as well as a talk by Mrs. Rosalie T. Nishio on "Succulent Gardening in the Bay Area."

Garden Club members and their friends, will meet at 7:30 p.m., in the War Memorial Center, 144 Hillside Blvd. to hear Mrs. Nishio discuss succulents suitable for this area's climate. Mrs. Frances Kelly, program chairman, notes that the speaker's qualifications are impressive.

Mrs. Nishio is the treasurer for the Bay Ocean District, recording secretary of the San Mateo Garden Center, immediate past president of the Peninsula Succulent Club, first vice president of programs, member both Oakland and San Jose Affiliates of the Cactus and Succulent Society of American and the Horticulture Chairman of the San Mateo Floral Fiesta in 1974.

In addition to the speaker, members will be able to participate in and enjoy the miniature show. The members are invited to submit a plant and/or an arrangement to be judged. The goal of the miniature show is to help members get informative evaluations of their work and develop the expertise necessary for participation in future flower shows.

VA Cemeteries Added to Meet Need

By LIN DAY

The recently dedicated national cemetery at Riverside will provide 390,000 grave sites and take care of California's needs for some time to come, the 28th Annual Training Conference of the California Association of Veterans Service Officers has been told.

Charles Jarvis, executive assistant to the director of the National Cemeteries System, said at the Villa Hotel sessions late last week in San Mateo that there are no plans to reopen or expand Golden Gate National Cemetery, nor to create another in this area in the future.

Jarvis said that in a nationwide expansion of national cemeteries, California was given a first priority due to its population density, with its new national cemetery the first of five huge cemeteries planned.

Asked if there might be a 27-story mausoleum built in Oakland, he responded that there was nothing like that before VA.

The Veterans Administration cemetery leader ticked off statistics showing that 86 million Americans today are eligible and "have a right to" be buried in national cemeteries.

There are 1,200 Spanish American war veterans still living, a million World War I veterans, nearly 14 million World War II veterans, 4.7 million Korean War veterans, 3.09 million veterans of the Cold War period and 6.6 million Vietnam veterans, he said.

Two of five males over 18 are veterans. Additionally, he said, there are 23.5 million wives or husbands, with 29.5 million dependent children: 2.7 million widows; and 900,000 eligible dependent children whose father or mother is deceased, adding up to 56 million dependents.

Of these, 2.2 million are over 65 years old, he said, and 105,000 are 85 or older.

Jarvis told of how the national cemetery program lagged under Army jurisdiction. It was being phased out, he said, when veterans groups turned it around after the National Cemeteries Act of 1973 transferred the Army's 81 national cemeteries to the VA, already operating 15 of 21 of its own cemeteries close to its hospitals.

"After the merger, the national cemetery system consisted of 4,176 acres," he said. "There were 2,311,905 actual or potential grave sites, most of which were not located in this country."

"In 1973, we buried the non-expansion policy. Expansion is now the policy. That is what the veterans of this nation want, deserve and are getting."

In three years, Jarvis said, the 4,176 acres have been doubled to 8,660 acres. The 2,311,905 potential grave sites have been increased to 4,330,408.

The five big new national cemeteries will add 1,890,000 grave sites, "and we hope to get authorization to establish more. The need will be there."

In addition to Riverside, a new cemetery in Massachusetts will add 360,000 sites, another in Pennsylvania, 360,000, and one in New York, 480,000. Another will be in Quantico, Va.

A quicker way is expansion of existing cemeteries, he said, and noted that the national cemetery at Fort Sam Houston, closed last year, was reopened after the Army donated 15 more acres for 9,000 sites.

Thirty-two acres acquired at Fort Bliss, Tex., yielded 19,200 more sites, and 76 acres acquired at Fort Logan, Colo., 45,600 more.

In all, expansion of existing cemeteries provided 132,100 sites for the system, he said.

Of the Army's prior attitude, he commented, "Basically, the Army was taking a do-nothing attitude, a fill-'em-up and close-'em up, with a cut-back all along the line." This included personnel reduction.

He said that after Golden Gate was closed, it had a high rate for reopeners.

"Our problems are mainly maintenance problems, such as interring the second member of a family, and upkeep problems."

He said that at some cemeteries burials stagger the imagination, with as many as 17 an hour at times. After that, there are upkeep problems such as sinking graves.

He predicted Arlington would be reopened to certain categories of veterans. He said current legislation would give priority not only to Congressional Medal of Honor holders but extend it also to holders of the Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Flying Cross, the Navy Cross and the Silver Star.

Jarvis indicated that cemeteries like Golden Gate might be better maintained in the future because the VA has the veteran's interest "at heart."

PREPARING FOR BIKE RIDES

Diabetes Association Sponsoring Bike Ride

The American Diabetes Association will hold its first Northern California bike ride Oct. 3, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. The money pledged will go to the American Diabetes Association, Northern California Affiliate, Inc.

All contributions are tax deductible and will be used for vital research, education, and summer camp for diabetic children.

Sponsors are urged to pay riders by money order or check, made payable to the American Diabetes Association. There is no limit to the number of persons a rider may have as sponsors.

Chairman of the event in Daly City is Mrs. Jeanne Kemp. Mrs. Kemp's 12-year-old daughter, Susan, was discovered to be a diabetic three years ago, and since that time Mrs. Kemp has been active in the fight against diabetes.

Publicity chairman, Jackie Pilchik of Daly City said that both McDonald's restaurants in Daly City are helping with the event. All riders will receive a coupon for a 12-ounce soft drink. Riders who complete the route will also receive a coupon for a free hamburger. In addition, each McDonald's is awarding a 10 speed bike for the rider who generates the most funds of all participants.

Participants who collect $5 or more will be awarded free tickets to the Giants Diabetes Day in 1977. Checkpoint chairman, Mrs. Joan Roemer of Daly City, has planned the route to start at either of the two McDonald's in Daly City. One is located at Junipero Serra Boulevard and 89th Street and the other is near the Serramonte Shopping Center. Riders are to travel from one McDonald's to the other and back, a distance of 12 miles. The National Guard will patrol the route and CB radio units will offer assistance. Brochures with all the information about the ride are available at both McDonald's. Sponsor sheets are available at McDonald's so that prior to the ride participants will go from door to door seeking donors to pledge so much per mile.

Participants will collect from their respective donors, following the ride and show verification of the number of miles they completed. The American Diabetes Association hopes to get over 30,000 riders in Northern California to raise over a half million dollars.

Little Time Left To Register to Vote

Less than one week remains for San Mateo County citizens to register, if they have not already done so, in order to vote in the Nov. 2 general election. County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church pointed out this week.

Church said voter registration forms must be received in his office no later than Monday, Oct. 4.

With only 245,000 county residents registered early this month, Church launched an all-out effort to secure a voter registration of at least 300,000 by the Oct. 4 deadline.

He reported today that as of last Friday the registration was estimated at 257,790. A total of 310,000 county residents were registered to vote in the November 1972 presidential election.

Church said he is hopeful that last Thursday's TV debate between President Gerald Ford and Democratic Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter would inspire a registration surge.

Since registration can be done by mail for the first time in this year's general election, it will be a few days before the effect of the debate on registration can be tabulated, Church said.

Registration-by-mail forms are available at the County Clerk's offices, at city halls, post offices, fire stations, most banks, public libraries, Department of Motor Vehicle offices, and PG&E offices.

State Ok's Repairs To Bayshore Ramp

After listening impassively to a blistering attack on the state's failure to safeguard and complete the interchange at 19th Avenue and Bayshore freeways by San Mateo Mayor John J. Murray Friday, the California State Highway Commission unanimously approved a $200,000 allocation for "emergency repairs."

And, its chairman William Leonard told the city delegation there will be no room for a further presentation on the need to permanently complete the interchange because Murray had made the presentation already.

The hard-pressed commission indicated some annoyance Murray would not halt after speaking five minutes, going on to a six-minute delivery in which he blasted the administration of the state highway system.

Murray Friday said the city will go to its legislators who were publicly thanked for getting the city on today's commission agenda, and ask for help in getting a place on the October agenda. Failing that, Murray said the city won't quit, that it will insist on another chance at appearing before the commission.

The mayor reported he was informed that bids have already been called for by District IV of the California Department of Transportation Department to replace the rotted timbers precariously holding up the on and off ramps at the interchange.

Heavy buses and trucks are still banned from using it.

Joining Murray was Public Works Director Robert Bezzant and Donna Starr of the Coalition of Concerned Citizens, which has joined the city in fighting for a permanent extension of 19th Avenue Freeway (State Route 92) to the Coastside.

Water Board Bans Pacifica Hookups

By JANET PARKER

The City of Pacifica was slapped with a sewer hookup ban by the regional Water Quality Control Board Oct. 21, leaving new construction in the city at a standstill.

The cease and desist order, voted in Oakland, came as a surprise to city officials who had argued for three hours on Aug. 17 and another hour Oct. 21 that the ban could only be punitive.

The ban on new hookups to the city's problem-plagued sewage treatment plant wouldn't force the city to alleviate its sewage problems any sooner, city officials had said.

But the board had little sympathy for the pleas of Pacifica's officials and approved the cease and desist order, 5-1.

The WQCB staff compiled a list of seven "tasks" that the city must complete before the ban will be entirely lifted.

Some of those so-called tasks are not expected to be implemented by the city until late next year when secondary sewage treatment gets underway.

However, as some of the tasks are completed, the board will consider easing the ban to allow certain construction projects.

Only one board member — Ray Gambonini — agreed with Pacifica officials that a ban wouldn't serve any purpose.

"I think it is a negative approach to getting the job done," said Gambonini.

"The right to build a home is fundamental," he said. The ban, he said, will be an "unfair to certain industries, trades and individuals."

Gambonini said the board makes a mockery of its own process by alluding certain construction under exemption clauses and other procedures while the ban still is in effect.

That's what occurred, he said, with the recent hookup ban in San Francisco.

Board member Mrs. Joseph Cuneo agreed that the construction ban is not likely to speedup Pacifica's compliance with state and federal sewage treatment laws.

However, she said she wasn't convinced the ban would place a specific hardship on Pacificans and subsequently voted in its favor.

WQCB Engineer Teng-chung Wu said that since the August hearing some improvements "have been noted but violations continue."

Pacifica's 2-year-old sewage treatment plant — situated on Beach Boulevard in the Sharp Park neighborhood — has been bogged down in an assortment of problems.

The most evident has been pungent odors that drift over the residential area — pushed by strong southwest ocean breezes.

Sharp Park residents have been complaining since the plant opened that the smell is intolerable and damaging to the health of residents and that it has forced the value of property and homes downward.

In July, the regional WQCB issued a notice to Pacifica that it was in violation of odor standards as well as standards for the discharge of grease and oil and other materials into the ocean.

The board continued the Pacifica hearing in August when city officials — after three hours of presentations — said they had at least two more hours to go.

WQCB Executive Officer Fred Dierker warned city officials at the outset Tuesday that "the quality of the evidence is going to influence this board more than quantity."

The board did have some mercy on Pacifica by exempting from its ban all those persons who have received building permits since July 7, when the violations were cited.

Originally, those permits were to have been included.

Pacifica's most important projects, however are those that are forthcoming. The ban will place in limbo a 102-unit senior citizen apartment complex, the 300,000-square-foot Ocean View Executive Park, the 97-unit "Portolas" apartment complex and the 104-unit Hickey-Gateway Apartments.

Richard Adams — attorney for the senior citizens complex builders — said that the ban could jeopardize a federal grant for that complex.

"In light of that... if you adopt a cease and desist order today, you will throw a real cloud over our operation," he said.

Chamber of Commerce Director Jim Gallagher pointed out another pending construction project the city had not mentioned — the Kumground of America at the north end of the city. KOA, he said, already has invested $33,000 into its project.

"Most of Pacifica's upcoming construction projects, however are additions to existing homes."

"You're just going to hurt a lot of little people," said resident Barbara Pruett.

City Atty. Gloria Scheid told the board that since the last hearing, the city adopted a sewage source control ordinance and has ordered temporary odor control equipment, expected to be installed by Oct. 15.

The council's approval of the ordinance, she said, allows the hiring of a specialist to implement that ordinance even though the city had to lay off 23 employees this year for financial reasons.

Also, to alleviate problems in the sewage outflow content, the amount of chlorine dumped into the system has been greatly increased, she said.

"As far as we know, we have made significant improvements in this area," Miss Scheid said. "We're just going to have to keep working at it and that's what we're doing."

The answer to all the problems is a $5 million secondary treatment plant addition expected to be built by the end of 1978.

But the board also is concerned about a six-month delay in construction of that addition to the existing plant.

Construction bids were opened last week and construction is scheduled to begin Nov. 1. Delays, city officials said, were due to a redesign in odor equipment and the complications of the Coastal Commission permit process.

WQCB Operations Chief Roger James said the delays are "entirely the fault of the city. The city could have prevented them."

Pacifica officials argued that they are trying to compensate for past delays and problems.

"Any imposition of a cease and desist order is not going to make the city move any faster," Miss Scheid said.

Assistant City Manager Don Jeffers pleaded the city's economic hardship, saying that the ban would forestall any financial gains Pacifica is anticipating from commercial developments.

Make a Quilt This Weekend

By JANET REINKA

Flaubert fussed over "Madame Bovary" for years. Herman Melville had no worry that another white whale would splash up out of somebody else's ink well before Moby Dick finished making waves.

And Michaelangelo had it so easy he could even lie down on the job, painting pictures worth a few million on the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel.

But for somebody like Barbara Johannah, whose claim to fame is her idea for a "better mousetrap," speed makes all the difference between offering something new and something that's already old hat.

Her brainstorm? A way to turn out those beautiful, splashy, intricate lifeworks called quilts that Grandma used to make — but in only a few hours.

"There's ain't nothing sacred about ideas," Ms. Johannah said. "I'm not a writer. You just have to get the ideas out — right now — before somebody else thinks of them."

That moment a year ago last summer when it dawned on her how she would make a stitch in time save nine times nine she describes as "the best feeling I've ever had."

There have been some runners-up, too. From her years teaching quilt-making for several North County Recreation Departments, she knew what a "hot idea" she had, one which would make quilting easy and less time-consuming for seamstresses interested in recapturing old-style arts.

She knew nothing about publishing, so she visited the library and a bookstore to get information about how they choose books. The "ethical" procedure — submitting the manuscript to each of 15 publishers one at a time — she rejected as too time-consuming.

Instead she sent a sample page and an outline of the book to all 15.

Then I got form letter rejections," she said, "and then I got personal rejections and I felt so good. One publisher was interested in seeking the entire 50-page manuscript. The day she was due to mail it off, Drake Publishers Inc. of New York called her and told her a contract would be in the mail.

"They must have known what a revolutionary idea it was," she said. "It must have just been that somebody was there who realized the implications."

understand that doesn't happen every often to a first-time author.

The book needed bulk, so for the next six weeks she worked from early in the morning until late at night writing and drawing little tic-tac-toe illustrations.

"The lines started to wobble around 7 p.m.," she said. She sent the book off by August. A year later, she saw it on the shelf of a local bookstore with the title "Quick Quilting: Make a Quilt This Weekend" ($6.95).

What makes her idea so revolutionary?

Most quilt-makers make a pattern, then trace strips together and lay the blocks together one at a time. Time after time.

Ms. Johannah's method is simplicity itself. She takes pieces of material about a yard square and marks them at regular intervals. Then she cuts them into strips.

Next she sews the long strips together and lays them out on a cutting board. Then she marks them crosswise at intervals and cuts them into more strips.

Depending on the pattern and the size of the quilt, she repeats the process, varying the design and colors. Finally, she assembles the whole thing together, long strip by long strip instead of block by block.

Her quickest quilt can be whipped out in about 10 hours, about 390 hours less than the first one Ms. Johannah ever put together — one she started 11 years ago as a class project at the College of San Mateo. She sewed the last stitch five years later.

For the Portola Valley resident, quilting has become "a passion."

"Now I see quilts everywhere," she said, "on paper bags, in designs. I always try to figure out how I can make the pattern into a quilt."

Will she publish again?

"I really don't think so," she said. "I'd have to come up with another good idea. For me the best part was having the idea. The rest was just work."

Barbara Johannah shows her book on stitching and a fairly easy quilt that she made in a few hours. Writing the book was much more trouble.

Travel Film Series Slated

The Golden Gate Geographic Society will girdle the globe in its travel film series starting Oct. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the College of San Mateo.

First of the 90-minute color-films to be shown in the college's Little Theatre will be the award-winning "A New Norway," narrated by John Roberts, former personal cameraman for Lowell Thomas.

Each subsequent program will also be narrated by its producer. The college's Community Education Department is cosponsoring the series.

"The Grandeur of Greece" will be presented Nov. 7 by Sheryllyn and Matthew Mentes. "Legendary Danube" from Vienna to the Black Sea Jan. 23 by Gene Wiancko. and "Bonnie Scotland" Feb. 13 by Bill Madsen. A highly acclaimed "Hawaiian Adventure" with Doug Jones as narrator is scheduled for March 13. Dr. Theodore J. Walker, nationally known scientist, presents his exploration of the "Sea and Shore of Baja" including the impressive sight of the California gray whales returning to Scammon's Lagoon, on April 17.

Ken Richter, popular film lecturer, closes the season May 1 with "Discovering New Zealand," showing fjords and scenery to rival Norway's.

The Golden Gate Geographic Society is a nonprofit organization located at 851 Burlingame Road, Suite 627, Burlingame 94010. Proceeds from the series will be used to underwrite geographic exploration and provide scholarships and grants for geographic study and research.

Printing Savings Approved

A program developed by the Governmental Research Council to increase the effectiveness of the county's printing facilities at an estimated savings of $150,000 annually has been approved by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

County Director of Building Construction and General Services Henry P. Tarratt, under whose department the Reprographic Division operates, endorsed the GRC recommendation and urged the board to adopt the program.

He stated the revamping will standardize the county's printing and copying operations and will have "far-reaching implications."

Included in the program is the hiring of a printing administrator by Jan. 1, 1977, to develop a management system of controls and capabilities, authorization for the division to research and test high-speed total copy systems with the intent of leasing a system which will provide the maximum efficiency for the county, and vesting in the division the responsibility for all reprographic services, including bond copiers; and the review and approval of all printing requirements.

The GRC program was developed under the direction of Gene Satrup, engineering records and graphics services supervisor for PG&E, and Neal Wineman, director of administrative services for Ampex Corp., who devoted 100 hours of their own time to the project.

Registration Mail Being Duplicated

Blanket mailings by the Secretary of State's Office in Sacramento of voter registration-by-mail forms have resulted in numerous instances of persons receiving more than one such form.

San Mateo County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church said his office has received many calls from persons who have received more than one form, and from persons already registered who received the form.

Although the return address on the form bears the San Mateo County address of his office, the forms are mailed from Sacramento from lists supplied by groups and organizations.

Church cited an example of the AFL-CIO sending a list of its members to the Secretary of State with the request that registration forms be sent to members. Other organizations do the same thing, he said. If a person is a member of another such organization, he will receive a form.

"There is no effort to check," Church said. "They are blanket mailings."

Furthermore, he added, the Department of Motor Vehicles mails the form to anyone who gets or renews a driver's license.

Some registered voters receiving the forms believe their registration has been canceled and send in the form. Church said that in such instances the computer through which the forms are run will catch the duplication if the registration is from the same residence and the signature is the same. However, if the resident signs his or her name differently than on the current registration, such as with a middle initial rather than the full middle name, there is no way the computer can catch it, and the voter is registered twice.

Church indicated he is not too concerned about dual registration resulting in a person attempting to vote twice in the Nov. 2 general election.

In the first place, he said, he doesn't believe most persons would try to do so. Secondly, the same election officials will be at the polling places throughout the day and probably would recognize a persons attempting to vote twice.

And, Church pointed out, conviction of a violation of the election laws carries a penalty of one to three years in state prison. The penalty for perjury in filling out the registration form is from one to 14 years in prison.

Locally, Church has taken precautions to avoid duplication registration. Persons seeking a registration-by-mail form from the County Clerk's Office or the Election Office do not get one until the voter registration rolls are checked to be sure that the person is not already registered, he said.

Sharp Drop Seen In South S.F. Pupil Enrollment

By JANET PARKER

South San Francisco school officials were dismayed last week to find district enrollment 300 students short of their estimate for the opening days of the fall semester.

If the situation continues, acting Supt. Tom Gaffney said, the district will have $375,000 less to spend in 1977-78 than it had anticipated.

"It's a serious problem," said Board of Trustees President Tom Henkle.

Associate Supt. Joe Smith said that as of Wednesday, 12,650 students are enrolled in the South San Francisco Unified School District.

The district had expected to have at least 12,950 students, Smith said.

California school districts receive from the state $1,250 for each student, based on enrollment projections for the fall.

Since the district has fallen short of its enrollment projection this year, the state will compensate by allocating a reduced amount next year, Smith said.

At $1,250 a student, a miscalculation of 300 pupils equals $375,000.

Smith said the problem will be handled by reducing expenditures this year. Budget reductions, he added, will be handled on a "day-to-day" basis.

All official budget reductions must come before the Board of Trustees, Smith said.

However, some budget-reducing will not require board approval, if it's simply a matter of not spending as much in a single department budget as originally planned.

Smith said board "non-action" also indicates approval.

"The board has certain obligations that it cannot cut back on," Smith said. The trustees already have approved non-certificated employee salaries for the year.

Other contractual services cannot be reduced, he said.

Trustee Ken Austin the budget for any purpose.

Teachers haven't yet begun salary negotiations with the Board.

The SSFUSD annual enrollment projections are based on a report by Edward La Franchi of the University of Southern California.

The board has pointed out annually that La Franchi's projections are usually less than 1 per cent from the actual enrollment figures.

Smith said he doesn't know where the projections went wrong this year, but the board will be meeting with La Franchi in October to evaluate the estimates.

One of the largest projection problems, Smith said, was in kindergarten.

The district had expected 965 students enrolled at that level this fall. As of Wednesday, there were only 865.

At the end of last school year, there were 1,111 kindergarten students.

The district already is taking steps to study the possible closing of one of its 22 campuses.

Henkle said this new enrollment count will only reinforce the need for that committee.

Smith said four teachers from Sun-shine, Martin and El Rancho schools have been reassigned to Foxridge and Monte Verde campuses, where classes are larger.

School districts must notify teachers by the March previous to the fall semester if they are to be released. Thus, teachers may not be dismissed this fall to compensate for the decline in enrollment and loss in revenue.

Smith said the SSFUSD has gained more than 300 students since opening day, Sept. 13. However, he said he expects to gain few students after the end of this week.

The first day enrollment in 1975-76 was 13,124. Closing enrollment in June was 12,804.

Smith said that throughout San Mateo County, only two school districts gained in enrollment this year.

Two districts lost less than 1 per cent of their enrollment and all the others lost more than 1 per cent, he added.

Gaffney said he should have a report to the Board of Trustees by Sept. 29 showing where students who were expected to attend SSFUSD, but did not, might have gone.

TO THE VICTORS, THE MESS

These participants in last year's "World's Largest Pie Fight" at the Cow Palace are calling attention to this year's event, which will be held Oct. 9 at 1 p.m. at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds to benefit Lions Club community charities and the Retinitis Pigmentosa Foundation. Some 2,500 pies, donated by Ken's House of Pancakes and having little or no food value, are expected to end up in someone's paws.

Human Services Session

A Human Services Conference designed to begin development of a coordinated program to better provide for social service needs of San Mateo County residents has been scheduled for Oct. 30, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Canada College in Redwood City.

The conference is co-sponsored by the County Board of Supervisors and the United Way of the Bay Area, and is being partially financed by the San Mateo Foundation.

Supervisor Edward J. Bacciochio Jr., co-chairman of the conference along with Superior Court Judge Thomas Jenkins, said invitations have been sent to groups and organizations throughout the county, and that registration will be limited to 300 persons.

The conference was called, he said, because the "need for a better way of determining the allocation of limited resources to meet human needs has arisen from a recognition that the present fragmented approach has led to gaps in needed services, duplication of effort and concern about costs."

Some of the problems which will confront the conference were cited before the Board of Supervisors this week by Clifford Boxley, director of the PROBE Community Center in Redwood City.

Boxley asked for a "county task force" to assist in developing "policy direction" in helping establishing priorities and developing alternatives for social service cutbacks resulting from a reduction in revenue-sharing funding this year.

"There is a loss of program stability at the community level and a lack of dealing with social problems," Boxley stated.

He said the problems should not be left entirely at the doorstep of political bodies, but that "all community resources" should participate in seeking a solution.

"The answer here is money," commented Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald. "We should try to get more for the dollar."

Give Budget Scissors To Citizens: Stewart

McRobert Stewart, Daly City councilman and former mayor who is seeking the Fifth District seat on the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, has proposed creation of a "Citizens Advisory Panel" to help review the county's budget.

"It's unrealistic," said Stewart, "to expect the supervisors to conduct a thoughtful review of the county's $175 million budget in the 6-10 days they presently spend on the task."

What happens in practice is that the supervisors are forced to rely heavily on the recommendations presented to them by the County Manager.

Stewart said that establishment of a "Citizens Budget Advisory Panel" would bring decisions about how county money is spent closer to the people who are taxed to raise that money.

According to Stewart's plan, the advisory group would carefully review each budget category over a period of several months.

and then present its recommendations to the supervisors along with those of the County Manager.

"I believe the informed recommendation of this panel would serve to maintain tight control over county expenditures in an equitable and effective fashion," Stewart said.

Stewart also called for more participation by department heads in the budget review process.

"These are the people who certainly should be best able to explain and justify their department's budget request, yet under the present system they often are not given an opportunity to present those requests publicly," Stewart said.

The Board of Supervisors seat Stewart is seeking will be decided in the Nov. 2 election.

The Big Debate: Not Much Shift in Views

By VERA GRAHAM and JANET REINKA

The televised Ford-Carter debate last Thursday didn't do much for the average San Mateo County voter, it appeared today.

It certainly didn't seem to have changed many minds.

That was the reaction gleaned from a survey of local voters. To most of them the choice of a presidential candidate remains a toss-up.

Did the debate change anyone's mind? Virtually all persons questioned said "No." They either wanted to hear more or their minds are made up. Most of those who already have selected a candidate didn't watch the debate.

Those who had opinions seemed split down the middle. Some favored Ford, some Carter. More than one voter, however, shrugged with disinterest. Some said both men would do a comparable job. Others saw little difference between them.

One Ford supporter,

Ryce Hopkins, 18, of 1309 Marshall St., Redwood City, said, "No. I didn't have time to watch; besides, I'm going to vote for Ford anyway."

Asked why, Hopkins replied, "Because of the way I feel about the government. It needs time to get it together, and Ford won't mess it up."

"Besides, I don't like Jimmy Carter. Maybe it's the vibes. I'll tell you one thing: his smile seems phony to me. I don't know why but it seems plastic, not real. I just think Ford won't do anything drastic and give the country a chance to pull it together."

James Choo of Hayward, a clerk at a 7-Eleven store in San Mateo said, "Yes, I watched with interest. I was sorry when the sound was interrupted. I liked Jimmy Carter. I think he can do good things for the country. Besides, he is a good man. He will bring better morality into the government, and that is important. I am a Christian too. I think it is time for us to be sure we have ethics and morality in government."

Ken Seggern of Redwood City said "It won't make any difference who is elected. I really don't care any more. The government is so big, it's running this country, not the people."

Tim Ritter, 20, of Foster City agreed, commenting, "Whoever gets in will do the same thing."

Marian Nunn of 1408 El Camino Real, Burlingame, Greyhound ticket office agent said, "Yes, I watched with interest. It was a good thing to give us a chance to see the two men face-to-face and hear them. I don't think the debate clarified any issues, however. I don't think anything was settled. It didn't change my mind."

"I do think that the issues are so complex, it's difficult for the average person to understand what they are really saying many times. I still can't say exactly what each man stands for I was left up in the air. I hope something comes along to help us decide who is the best man."

One viewer said, "I think we are fortunate; we have two good men to choose from."

George Dunn of Half Moon Bay, well-known as a Republican party leader on the Coastside, shook his head in disgust. "I didn't get anything out of it," he said. "I'd like to know why they put the two candidates on parrot stands. Ridiculous. I guess I have changed my mind as a result of watching the debate."

Early risers queried at grocery stores open round the clock-almost without exception made comments such as, "What time was it?" "Oh, gee, I'm a garage mechanic. I worked until 7 last night and here I am already. I'm too tired. I just hope they don't kill us with taxes."

A Belmont woman said, "I had something more interesting to do. I went to a sewing class."

Lou Coffare of Redwood City commented, "I thought Mr. Carter came off very well. He is knowledgeable on the issues and presented better answers. Mr. Ford seemed slightly nervous and in doubt about his answers. I've been leaning toward Carter because he's new and might offer a fresher approach, but I still haven't decided who I'll vote for."

Edna Lee of San Carlos said, "As far as I'm concerned, one contradicted the other. I don't see how Carter can improve the environment and at the same time lower the taxes, like he says he will."

"I think Ford's been doing a pretty good job. I thought Carter was a better speaker, and I leaned toward him before the (Playboy) interview."

Now, Mrs. Lee says she thinks she'll vote for Ford. "I'm like a lot of people," she added. "I think he really loused himself up the other day when he said those things. It really wasn't necessary to say those things about women."

Margaret Segalke of South San Francisco said, "I like Carter a little bit better after the debate. I like his ideas. I thought he was much more down to earth. I like his ideas about employment." She said the debate confirmed the way she already felt.

A Daly City die-hard Republican who didn't want to be identified said, "Carter didn't know what he was talking about. He hemmed and hawed a little bit. I think Ford came across with flying colors."

A Daly City woman said, "Well, I don't know as how anyone won. I think it was informative, but I still think it was a draw. I think everyone is a little more aware of Mr. Carter's stance. I heard a comment that I think I agree with. 'Mr. Ford was acting as the president in the debate, and Carter possibly acted more like a candidate. I think I could still be influenced about whom to vote for. I think they both felt ill at ease, because it was a new experience for them, a new atmosphere.'"

Shirley Miller of Millbrae, who said she is a Republican, stated, "I didn't care for the radio program afterward (KFRC) telling everybody what they heard. I did not feel that either man came on strong enough on the amnesty issue. I think Mr. Carter dropped it as soon as he could. I feel that Mr. Carter smiled his way all through it. I didn't think a presidential candidate should have had anything to smile about."

Norm Carlson, a San Francisco resident who works in Daly City, said, "I wasn't as sold on Jimmy Carter before, as I was last night. I got more of a broad spectrum on what he actually felt. It seemed like Ford would say something about the checks and balances, and Carter said it didn't make any difference about the party at all." He indicated he felt Carter's position indicated a disloyalty to the Democratic party.

Maria Weimman of Pacifica said, "To be honest with you, I just couldn't make it out. Mr. Carter was very evasive. Ford sounded like he talked around the issues. Neither of them could be pinned down." She said she hasn't made up her mind yet and wants to hear more about the issue of taxes, which she said should be lowered, and about nuclear power, which she said is too dangerous.

A San Mateo woman said, "I thought it was sort of a draw. Maybe Ford presented a stronger appearance than Carter did." She said she thinks Ford physically looked more impressive (Ford is said to be four inches taller than Carter, hence the distance between the two podiums, and the reluctance to bring the two candidates closer together in a handshake.)

A San Bruno woman said, "I thought about the same as I thought before I watched the debate. I'm not at all sure that anybody can come up with any real programs that are going to take care of unemployment."

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY ★ LLOYD JOHNSON

Eighteenth Century Theme at Gulliver's

GULLIVER'S, an authentic English Pub in Burlingame totally themed to the Eighteenth Century, offers but one entree, flavorful and juicy prime rib of beef, which is cut to your liking (a Gulliver Cut: Prime Minister Cut, thinly sliced in the English manner, or a Bi-Endian Cut). Only top grade, corn-fed beef is used. Dinner includes a choice of thick pottage or salad (light vinegar and oil dressing), fresh creamed corn served family style, spinach souffle, Yorkshire pudding, au jus, and a creamed horseradish. No potatoes are served. Save room for dessert, as the choice is unique and enticing. As for the serving wenches, you'll love their traditional costumes and American good looks. Lunch is served from 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday; dinner from 5:30 p.m. seven days a week. Gulliver's offers just one red wine that changes monthly and it is carefully selected for quality. Continental cuisine is the specialty of NICK GUST'S MOONRAKER restaurant in Rockaway Beach, and one you'll be telling your friends about. NICK'S, a popular food and entertainment target, and CAPTAIN CHARLES, a gourmet seafood specialty house, are also owned-operated by the Gust family. These dining spots are located within walking distance of each other and offer a fantastic ocean view. Plenty of free parking. The "2 for 1" Luncheon Special at the BAYHILL LOUNGE in San Bruno is going over great, report owners HARRY CURRIS and MEL CICERO. They are also happy with the way THE TRI SOUNDS are going over with the nightly dance crowds. Coyote Point's beach and recreation area is now being completely remodeled, but the management of THE CASTAWAY would like readers of Bright Lights to know that the restaurant is open for business as usual. FRANK MONTY, a 12-year veteran of the restaurant industry, is the newly appointed chef who will be adding a quiche to the Sunday Brunch, as well as crepe items. VINCE'S ITALIAN AND SEAFOOD restaurant parking space resembles a giant used and new car lot seven evenings of the week. This is one of the largest free parking areas for restaurant customers on the Peninsula, which is real great for the luncheon and dinner seekers. MURRAY LEHR just introduced a new combination dinner at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE GARDEN restaurant in San Francisco that is winning equal praise from steak and seafood lovers. It is Lehr's gourmet version of "Surf & Turf" — Alaska king crab and filet mignon steak — two superb entrees combined on one incomparable dinner. Enjoyed a gourmet pizza (and I use the word "gourmet" without fear of contradiction) with my good friend ENRICO ROMANO in Rockaway Beach, the other eve. Enrico and his mother have been making "dough" pizza fashion at ROMANO'S Italian restaurant for many a year, and it is always a pleasure to dine and visit there. A look-see into SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S, Redwood City, the other p.m. found a wall-to-wall dining crowd. The Scotty-clad waitresses were darting about looking as if they had lost their bagpipes. A wonderful dinner house for elegant entertaining. Lots of excitement at PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY in San Francisco the other night when Spencer Michaels of TV Channel 3 in Sacramento stopped by to film a segment for his popular "The Man Who Came To Dinner" series. Michaels feasted on Steak Shallot, prepared by Phil on his new Fasar magnetic tableside cooking cart, then he switched to Lehr's Wellington Room across the street to top off his dinner with a scrumptious flaming dessert.

Le Pacini

San Jose Auditorium presented history during the summer as the site of the first all-women's boxing match in Northern California. Princess Red Star, a genuine Yurok Indian, fought a draw in a four-rounder with Dianne Syverson before 566 fans and curiosity seekers.

Princess Red Star, daughter of her manager-trainer-second, and sister of a professional fighter (who was knocked out in two on the same card that night), had been undefeated in three previous bouts in Oregon and Nevada. She was destined to win, it seems, considering her background, which includes a mother whom the princess claims, "always wanted me to box."

So the draw with a young lady in her first professional bout was somewhat of an upset, even though Syverson is a Roller Games skater out of Los Angeles, which doesn't exactly make her a powderpuff.

Jack Downey, one of the two judges who called the fight a draw, took the assignment because he was ordered by the State Boxing Commission to do so, and would work as a judge for a woman's fight again if he were so ordered, but he would never do it voluntarily.

"Women's boxing is something that I guess is here to stay, and it has its virtues, I guess," muses Downey. "But I don't like it, personally. I don't think it belongs on public view at all. Oh, it was exciting to the crowd... but geez, you've got two young girls banging away at each other, and it just doesn't seem right."

Downey, asked about the protection with which women boxers are provided, smiles and admits, "They have pretty good protection, as far as I could find out—but of course, there's hearsay, and not from any personal knowledge or investigation."

But then Downey gets serious again. "It just didn't sit right with me. I just don't think it belongs."

"You have to enjoy boxing. I did. I'm not sure the princess does, though. I think her father's exploiting her. The world has changed, kids nowadays are different. To be a boxer, you have to be a breed all your own. When you look at it later on in years, it's kind of brutal. You have to like it to do it, you have to get it out of your system. At the time you're doing it, it makes you feel good, independent, because unlike many team sports, you're on your own in there."

"But as I said, things were different when I was a kid. There weren't as many distractions. I got up, did my roadwork, did my training, all on my own, got in the best physical condition I could get into, and that in itself gave me satisfaction, made me feel good."

As far as the fighting itself went, I felt that if I won, fine and dandy. If I lost, I had done the best I could. In a week or two I'd get over my injuries, lick my wounds, and be ready to go again, and that was it. It wasn't as complicated as it is now.

"I'll say this. The women had very good skills. They were actually pretty good boys... I mean, oh, hell, girls."

Downey, as can be read above, is a man who isn't bashful about expressing himself, especially on the subject of boxing. And why should he be bashful? He's been a licensed referee for almost half a century. Which is why he can say about Olympic refereeing, "miserable. The refs didn't move. I'll say this, though, the judging was very good."

"Of course, I frankly would never accept an Olympic assignment, because I couldn't referee the way those guys do. They'd throw me out. This stuff, for example, of a jab counting as much as a knockdown. I could never go that."

"I couldn't officiate at a national amateur show here, either. Those amateur officials, I just can't stomach them. It's a clique. The whole AAU is a clique, a breed of guys who are strictly amateurs in every sense of the word."

Downey, however, has nothing bad to say about amateur boxers, especially those who participated in the Olympics. "The Olympic boxing was, to my mind, the best I've ever seen. The boxing was exceptional. And those kids were good winners and good losers; put on a great display of sportsmanship."

IF WASHINGTON POLITICIANS are so hot to get a big league team back to D.C., why don't they pass a bill through Congress ordering the government to subsidize a team? They subsidize airplane manufacturers. They subsidize oil companies. They subsidize whole countries.

So why not a baseball team? What the government would lose annually on its franchise would be a drop in the bucket. Maybe about one day's worth of arms manufacturing—arms which are obsolete the next week, anyway. At the least, Washington could offer a team free rental of J.F.K. Stadium.

After all, there is no way in a free society that Congress can coerce a private owner into taking over a team which is bound to lose money—as any Washington franchise is destined to do.

What is so ironic about the squeeze Congress is trying to put on big league baseball, hanging that antitrust exemption over their heads, is that if baseball did put a team in Washington, none of the politicians would pay for their box seats, anyway.

And even if they did, for show purposes, lay cash out for them, you could bet that it wouldn't be their money, but would come out of some sort of entertainment fund, or something perhaps even more esoteric.

IT GETS TIRESOME hearing the critics click off the names of former Giants who have made good with other teams. In most cases, especially in the case of the most often mentioned player, George Foster, the players mentioned were untied youngsters when the Giants traded them off for immediate help when they were consistently in pennant races.

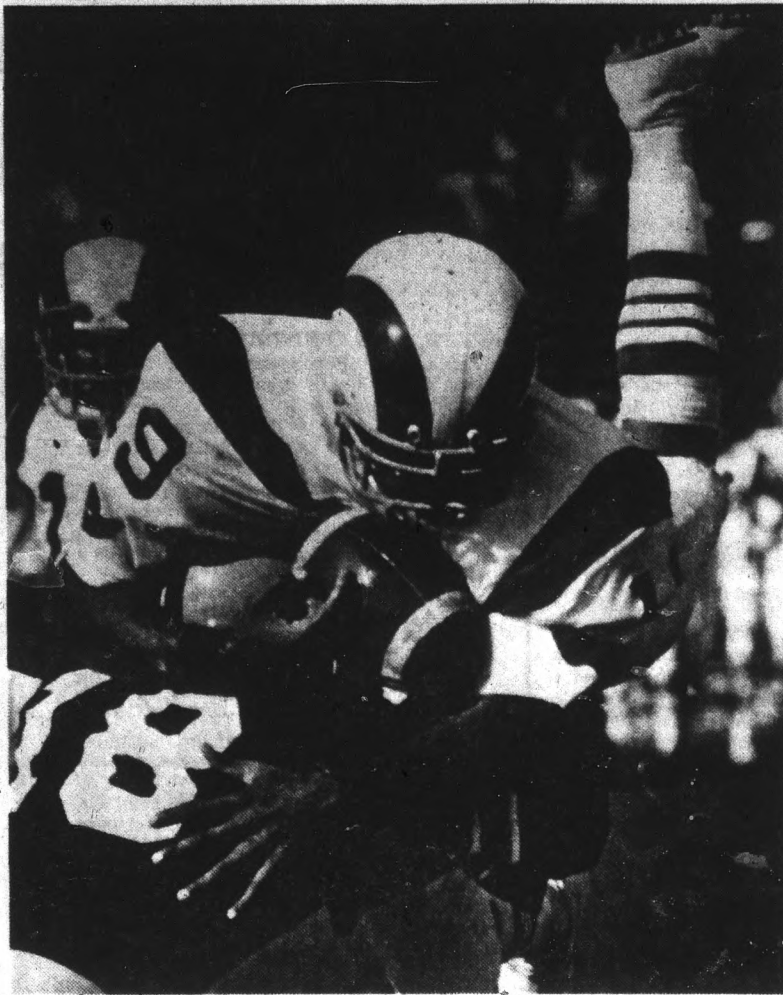

There was no way Foster, at the time, was going to break into the 1971 Giant outfield of Ken Henderson in left, Willie Mays in center and Bobby Bonds in right, with Dave Kingman also hanging around. The Giants, don't forget, were driving for what turned out to be their last winning season (a fact which the critics never seem to mention when they moan about the Foster trade) and were looking for infield insurance in Frank Duffy, a very good shortstop. Don't forget, they were playing that season with a raw rookie at short—20-year-old Chris Speier.

At the time he left the Giants, Foster was hitting .287. In 104 games with the Redw that year, he hit .234. There followed seasons of .200, .282 (in just 17 games), and .264, with never more than 7 homers in a season until he had his first good year in 1975. During that period the Reds became a power, and could afford to let a weak-hitting young outfielder hang around the fringes.

SUDDEN THOUGHTS—Trying to convince a jittery like John D'Aquisto that he's fast enough so that he can still get batters out if he lets up slightly and throws strikes, is like trying to convince a hitter like Dave Kingman that he doesn't have to swing as hard as he does to hit homers, and that if he let up on his swing a little, he would make better contact and hit for a higher average.

It is a continual wonder to this amateur why infielders continue to insist on using such huge gloves even though they so frequently lose decisions on close plays because they can't pick the ball out of the big gloves, and in many cases don't even know they have the ball because they can't feel it.

We hate to mention the olds days, but it is true that infielders not only used the smallest gloves they could find, but that they all automatically extricated all padding from the gloves, and in some cases, literally cut the leather out of the "pocket" so that they would be catching the ball bare handed. All so that they could feel the ball.

QUARTERBACK CRUNCH

Westmoor High quarterback Jack Dorn (19) is stopped in mid-flight by San Mateo's Mike Henson (18), but not before passing across the goal line for a score. Henson was San Mateo's quarterback on offense. Westmoor won the non-league match 24-12.

Jones Sparks Regent Win

Darryl Jones caught a 57-yard pass for one touchdown and ran 32 yards to set up another as Serramonte High's football team scored a 13-6 non-league win over James Logan Friday night in Union City.

Logan scored on an 18-yard pass with 0:09 left in the second quarter to take a 6-0 halftime lead.

Serramonte didn't get on the board until 11:01 remained in the game, when quarterback Dan Lara connected with Jones of the bomb.

Ron Gibson scored the Regents' final TD from two yards out after Jones had moved them into position.

Serramonte outgained Logan 247-227. Gibson gained 77 yards in 21 carries; Jones had 51 in nine carries. Lara passed for 99 yards.

Serramonte is now 2-0; Logan is 2-1.

Each team fumbled five times, but the Regents recovered all their own bobbles.

Scoring: Serramonte 13-0 0-0 13-13 Logan 6-0 0-0 6-6
Scoring: L—Sutton 18 pass from Chung (pass failed); S—Jones 57 pass from Lara (Sims kick); S—Gibson 2 run (kick blocked).

Warriors Miss Upset

By TIM MENICUTCH
Post Correspondent

A determined South San Francisco High football squad nearly upset tough St. Ignatius Friday night at Cliff Field, but bowed in the end, 14-12.

South City jumped to an early lead on its third possession of the night. Following a muffed SI center snap, defensive tackle Marco Manzanarez pounced on the ball, giving the Warriors field position just inside Wildcat territory.

With third and seven to go, halfback David Palmer broke to the outside and romped 39 yards for a score.

Bone-jarring defense highlighted the remainder of the first half, resulting in numerous fumbles, punts and grunts.

Seemingly losing none of their edge in the halftime break, the Warriors marched 76 yards in 14 plays to secure a 12-0 lead. All 14 plays were runs, and consumed seven minutes on the clock.

Palmer's second big gainer of the evening highlighted the drive; he galloped 27 yards on a crucial third-down play. Workhorse fullback Asa Hilliard scored the touchdown on a four yard burst up the middle.

Just when it seemed South City was in the driver's seat for an upset, the unbeaten Wildcats responded to the pressure and scored the very next time they had the ball.

Quarterback Claudio Cipolla finally loosened up his arm and engineered a 77-yard march.

Cipolla hit on passes of 7, 22, 19, and 9 yards before handing off to Charles Williams for a two-yard scoring run. Lou Kolena kicked the important extra point.

Elusive Mr. Momentum had suddenly changed to St. Ignatius' side. South San Francisco fumbled the next two times it had possession. After the first bobble, an SI drive was thwarted by Steve Caniglia's end zone interception.

South City wasn't as lucky the next time. Two plays after the fumble, Cipolla found Bill Ryan deep on the sideline and he sidestepped into the end zone for a 28-yard scoring play.

Palmer had a banner night, racking up 123 yards in 18 carries. Hilliard added 55 more.

St. Ignatius upped its non-league record to 3-0; South City is 0-1-1.

St. Ignatius..... 0 0 7 7-14
So. San Francisco..... 0 0 6 6-12
Scoring: SSF—Palmer 39 run (kick failed); SSF—Hilliard 4 run (kick failed); SI—Williams 2 run (Kolena kick); SI—Ryan 24 pass from Cipolla (Kolena kick).

Sharks Rout Falcons

Oceana High's football team lived up to its top ranking in the North Peninsula League by routing non-league opponent Crestmoor 48-0 Saturday in Pacifica.

Five different Shark backs ran wild against an inexperienced Crestmoor defensive unit. Doing most of the damage were halfback Denis Murray and fullbacks Randy Swayne and Doug Stevens.

Costly Falcon mistakes led directly to Oceana's first three scores.

Oceana outgained its opponents 306 to 48. The NPL favorites picked up 215 yards on the ground.

Murray paced the Sharks with 60 yards on 13 carries. Stevens added 10 carries for 53 yards and Swayne had nine for 40.

Dave Hinds hit three of six passes for 71 yards and one TD. Dan Lee, who completed one pass for 20 yards, left the game in the second period with a possible fractured leg.

Oceana's non-league record is now 1-0-1. Crestmoor is 0-1-1.

Oceana..... 14 28 7 7-0
Scoring: O—Murray 4 run (Hinds kick); O—Swayne 26 interception return (Hinds kick); O—Murray 13 run (Hinds kick); O—Caley 22 pass from Hinds (kick failed); O—Hinds 1 run (Hinds kick); O—Swayne 1 run (Hinds kick); O—Stevens 3 run (Hinds kick).

Colts Clip Capuchino On Alan Kern Bomb

El Camino High quarterback Al Kern didn't have a very productive Friday evening, completing just one pass.

But that one pass went for 66 yards and the deciding touchdown in the Colts' 12-8 upset win over Capuchino at Burlingame High.

The win by El Camino evened both schools' non-league record at 1-1 and gave first-year coach Lonnie Beckenhauer his initial win.

Cap was in command 8-6 with 5:57 left in the game. But, faced with a second and 10 on his own 34, Kern faded back and hit Dan O'Regan with a perfect aerial for 66 yards and the go-ahead score.

The Colts held the Mustangs on the next series and took over on their own 44.

Youth Sports Clinic Set

An eight-week sports clinic for boys eight to 12 will be held at Ray Park Saturdays from 1-3 p.m. from Oct. 2 to Dec. 4.

The clinic is designed to introduce youngsters to a variety of sports activities. They may register at the Burlingame Recreation Center, 850 Burlingame Ave.

after a punt. EC tried to run out the clock but fumbled on Cap's 33 with 2:24 to go.

Cap quarterback Ken Van Egmond found tight end Dennis Haskins over the middle for 20 yards. But two runnings plays an incomplete pass left a fourth and five situation on the Colt 39 with 1:12 left.

On a daring call, fullback Mike Holtzen slanted off right tackle for 12 yards and a first down. Things looked bright.

But on the next play, Van Egmond's pass was picked off by Dennis Cowan, and El Camino ran out the clock.

Cowan was the offensive star for Camino, rushing for 108 yards on 15 carries, including a 41-yard TD scamper.

Holtzen topped the Mustang offense with 93 yards on 10 carries. Van Egmond completed four of nine passes in the second half after not attempting a pass in the first half.

El Camino..... 0 0 6 6-12

Opportunistic Rams Down San Mateo

By DAN BERTELOTTI
Post Correspondent

Key return yardage and costly San Mateo mistakes paced Westmoor High's football team to a 24-12 win over the host Bearcats Friday.

The Rams took advantage of great play by their special teams and a fumble recovery for a touchdown to win its first game of the year. San Mateo dropped its second in a row to a North Peninsula League team after having won 22 straight.

The Rams rang up a total of 161 return yards. John Smith picked up 82 yards on six returns and Dave Ramirez had 67 more.

It was Ramirez's 45-yard punt return to the San Mateo two-yard line that set up Westmoor's first touchdown, a one-yard plunge by Mike McClennan.

San Mateo rallied to make it 7-6 at halftime on a two-yard quarterback keeper by Mike Henson with 3:07 left in the half.

Early in the third quarter, Westmoor's Elva Warner picked up an errant pitchout on the San Mateo two and fell into the end zone.

The Rams held the Bearcats on the next series and after a 22-yard punt return took over on the SM 48.

Westmoor scored in four plays, with McClennan going in from four yards out. The key play was a keeper by quarterback Jack Dorn, who ran for one yard, and pitched back to Smith, who ran for 24 more.

The Rams made it 24-6 with 9:52 to go on a 30-yard field goal by Chris Toohey, who also made all three PATs.

San Mateo's offense had been all but non-existent in the second half. When the Bearcats took over on their last possession with 1:51 left in the game, they had gained only 17 yards in the last half.

They salvaged some solace against second-string Rams by going 74 yards in nine plays, with Andy Howard catching a 12-yard screen pass from Henson as the final gun sounded.

Howard was about the only bright spot for San Mateo, running for 100 yards on 17 carries. Two San Mateo quarterbacks could combine to complete but six of 17 tosses.

Westmoor..... 0 7 14 3-24
San Mateo..... 0 7 6 8-12
Scoring: W—McClennan 1 run (Toohey kick); SM—Henson 2 run (Bad snap); W—Warner 2 fumble return (Toohey kick); McClennan 4 run (Toohey kick); Toohey 30 field goal; SM—Howard 12 pass from Henson (pass failed).

Defense Does It

Knights Beat Tigers

By CHRISTOPHER STAVE
Post Sports Writer

Last year Don Mack decided he wasn't interested in playing football, and Hillsdale High Coach Don Lembi won.

"I figured he could have been all-league," said Lembi.

This year, Mack is making up for lost time. "Before, I just didn't feel up to football. I needed to take kind of a breather," said Mack, who led a sterling defensive effort Friday night as the Mid-Peninsula League favorites stopped host Terra Nova 16-6 in a non-league contest.

"Now everything's working out," said Mack. "I have confidence now. Football's my game and I love playing it."

He indulged that love to Terra Nova's dismay Friday night.

The 5-9, 204-pound senior spearheaded a defensive line effort that held the defending North Peninsula League champions to 13 plays for minus eight yards in the first half. Hillsdale linebackers rarely had a chance to touch a Tiger jersey.

With Larry Metter out with a torn ligament and Rick Catalano playing defense only because of a pulled muscle, Hillsdale ran its offense with two much lighter backs.

The Knight attack sputtered against a Terra Nova front that closed all holes every time the Knights penetrated the Tiger 30 yard line.

The Knights got their first score midway through the second quarter after defensive lineman Eric Layton forced, and recovered, a fumble at the Tiger 25.

As usual, Terra Nova stiffened, but on fourth and 13 at the 28, Hillsdale quarterback Terry Batchelder lofted a scoring pass to tight end Jeff Metter, who beat two defenders deep in the end zone. Hillsdale led 8-0 at the half.

Hillsdale got another break early in the third period when Ken Corvello blocked a Terra Nova punt deep in Tiger territory. Hillsdale didn't wait for fourth down this time. After a five-yard penalty against the Tigers, Norman Adams carried for five. Batchelder kept for nine and Adams scrambled the final eight yards around right end to score. Batchelder's second conversion pass made it 16-0.

Then Terra Nova, which is not noted for spectacular offense, found a Hillsdale weakness and drove 88 yards in 17 plays to score, using up 9:23 on the clock.

The play that killed Hillsdale was an option pitch to either side from quarterback Daryl Fazio to Mike Kremesec. The Knight line and inside linebackers were shut off from the play; only one linebacker got outside to meet the two backs, with predictable results. Jeff Bartizal tallied from a yard out with 0:15 left in the third quarter, ending scoring for the evening.

TN failed to capitalize on a fumble recovery deep in Hillsdale territory; linebacker Vinny Roche stopped two Tiger runs for no gain, linebacker Mike Matisi and Layton thwarted an option play and Matisi forced a hurried throw on an attempted screen.

Hillsdale ran out a lot of clock. Terra Nova got in four more downs, but lost its last chance when Lee Glover intercepted a long Tiger pass with 2:10 left.

Hillsdale is now 1-1 in non-league play. Terra Nova is 0-2. Hillsdale players were already looking forward to next Friday's intra-city showdown with Serra.

Bulldogs Snap Longest String

By CHRISTOPHER STAVE
Post Sports Writer

Tony Bava's dream may have been better than reality — but the reality helped College of San Mateo's football team snap the longest unbeaten streak in the state large division ranks Saturday.

"I was thinking about it before the game," said Bava. "Not about what happened, exactly, but about an interception runback or something . . . as long as I did SOMETHING."

He did. His 90-yard touchdown return of a blocked field goal on the last play of the first half gave CSM a 20-0 lead, and the Bulldogs went on to win their Golden Gate Conference opener over visiting Diablo Valley College 27-13.

CSM upped its record to 3-0. DVC suffered its first loss in its last 10 games.

CSM led 14-0 late in the second quarter when the Vikings drove as far as the Bulldogs five yard line. CSM held, and on the last play DVC's Jim Saunders attempted a 22-yard field goal. He kicked it low, into the charging lines.

The ball was hanging about a yard off the ground when Bava snatched it and dashed down the left sideline for a score that gave CSM a 20-0 halftime lead. The way things turned out in the second half, Bava's contribution was crucial.

He didn't seem excited afterward. "I'm supposed to do that," the 5-9, 160-pound Carlmont grad said with a shrug.

CSM may not have developed a killer instinct yet; for the second straight week an opponent made waves in the second half. But it didn't matter. The Bulldogs' early bites again proved fatal.

DVC managed to stop half of CSM's offense — the running half — but had no better luck with a total shutdown than the Bulldogs' past two opponents.

There's just no way a team can stop both our running and passing," said CSM wide receiver Paul Bachtold, who caught seven Randy Gomez passes for 107 yards after having a rough game the week before.

"I know for a fact that we can pass against any team," he said. "DVC was better than the first two teams we played (Reedley and Santa Rosa). They were quicker, they were more disciplined and their defensive backs were better. But Randy was throwing well."

He sets up and throws very quickly. This puts a big cushion between me and the defensive back — he gets it to me when I make my cut so I can make my move. The timing was good this week.

CONCENTRATION

College of San Mateo wide receiver Paul Bachtold, aware of nothing but the flight of the ball, caught seven passes for 107 yards Saturday as the unbeaten Bulldogs dumped visiting Diablo Valley College 27-13.

Indeed it was. Gomez completed 19 of 31 passes for 258 yards and three touchdowns — one each to Steve Mahlstadt, John O'Leary and Rich Allen.

Meanwhile, CSM's quick defensive line thwarted DVC on the ground in the first half, and was obviously well prepared to handle the scrambling of Viking quarterback Ed Fitzgerald (who was replaced by Saunders in the second half after completing just four of 13 passes with one interception).

CSM, which is certain to improve on its No. 13 state ranking after Saturday's performance, visits Laney (2-1 overall, 0-1 in the GGC) after a 15-14 loss to City College of San Francisco Friday night at 7:30.

Hillside Challenge

Serra Rejoining The Local Fold

IT'S BEEN A long time since a San Mateo public school challenged Serra High's dominance of the local football scene. Hillsdale will try it Friday afternoon at Hillsdale — but even though the Knights are good they'll go in as underdogs.

That's usually the way it is when any County team plays Serra. And that's usually why Serra's had a tough time scheduling local teams in recent years.

"Still, I don't underestimate them at all," said Serra Coach Nick Carboni. "They're so big . . . and we're not. Their quarterback, Terry Batchelder, is also one of the finest athletes in the area. As a matter of fact, I've given his name to a couple of college coaches."

Healthy Hillsdale players (and there are fewer of them now than there were two weeks ago) will by sky-high for the Serra game. As for the Serra players who know?

Serra will go from this game into a league schedule far tougher than anyone else in the County will face. The Padres may get beaten a time or three. But they may still be the best team in the County.

This really frosts a lot of athletic types at local public schools. Some coaches have been terribly bitter over Serra's success, claiming that as a private school Serra could and did offer inducements (in other words, recruit) from the public schools' pool.

And when word went around "three years ago that Serra was failing as an educational institution, you could have found plenty of plenty of locals who'd have been more than willing to hold the wake."

***

BUT RUMORS of Serra's impending demise were premature.

According to Carboni, who is also the vice-principal, the school has been revitalized. Enrollment is up. The student body may be more cohesive than ever. This fall's turnout for the Padres' three football teams has been tremendous.

In other words, Serra may remain a dominant sports force for some time to come. And Serra may remain a pariah among local schools.

"I think people were just bitter when they got beaten badly by us," said Carboni. "We didn't go out and actively recruit kids. Other coaches may see a kid going here, a good athlete, who would otherwise have gone to their schools . . . and they get bitter about that too."

"But can you blame a parent who wants to send a boy here? Especially if the boy is from a Catholic grammar school? They may want to take advantage of the athletic program, or the fact that this is still a closed campus, really structured, with a dress code."

"We don't HAVE to recruit. Some players want to go here, just like some players want to go to USC or Notre Dame, because they appreciate the difference in spirit or the competition."

Actually, most of the recruiting charges stem from past years. The West Catholic Athletic League now has a rule (which was apparently devised because of somewhat blatant recruiting practices by another WCAL school) which strictly governs transfers of public school students to WCAL schools.

At least one well-known coach from the MPL and one from the NPL have privately accused Serra of recruiting in the past — and one, an intelligent man of many parts, was positively acrimonious.

And Serra's many successes are often dismissed with this curt explanation: "Oh, well . . . THEY can RECRUIT."

I suspect that if Serra did a lot of serious recruiting it would (a) be in a lot of trouble and (b) do a lot better in the WCAL than it does now.

Presently, after years of not-so-polite distance from other County schools, Serra is beginning to succeed in its sustained efforts to rejoin the local fold.

Some thanks for that goes to Terra Nova Coach Bob Lotti and Hillsdale's Don Lembi, neither of whom were afraid to schedule a team with Serra's reputation.

"We would have played Terra Nova again this year, except for a scheduling conflict," said Carboni. "And I respect Lembi for his opinion . . . I agree with him that you should play the best teams you can in the preseason."

"One of the best examples of this is Fred Opezzo at Await (Opezzo was a star at Serra, going on to play at College of San Mateo and UC Santa Barbara before joining the coaching ranks). I don't think he's ever won a preseason game, but in his first year he won a Central Coast Section championship and last year he was close to the top."

***

CARBONI CREDITS attitude, discipline, parent support and leadership by new principal Rev. Carl Schipper for Serra's continued success.

"The spirit is tremendous," he said. "And it's not as though our program is so much more comprehensive than those at public schools. Teacher-coaches at public schools have problems with time, but as vice-principal I'm taking more time with scheduling than ever before."

"We don't have a weight program. We didn't enter CSM's summer passing league. We wanted to let the kids compete in other sports. We don't even get out to practice till about 3:30. Sometimes kids from Hillsdale will be finished with their practice and down watching ours before we wind up."

***

I MENTIONED Hillsdale's injury problems; they're bad, but Serra's may be worse. Padre quarterback Rick Grossmann took 30 stitches in his chin (by Carboni's count) and won't know till Thursday whether or not he'll be able to play against Hillsdale.

"That may be crucial," said Carboni. "Hillsdale is big. It's like when we played Await (a 34-14 Serra victory). It was hard to move them, so we had to get some people open for passes. And Grossmann is passing much, much better this year."

***

A FORMER COACH wrote in response to a recent column about staffing problems and coaching discontent in the Mid-Peninsula League. It reads, in part:

"So after . . . years of getting squeezed by classroom and coaching duties, I decided to quit. Plainly, it was a matter of survival, and that's why most coaches quit or retire."

"It takes a young teacher to withstand the rigors of coaching and classroom duties. Since we are not hiring those types these days, the excellence in athletics will have to suffer — a harsh but irrefutable reality."

***

ATHLETE OF THE Week is Aragon High halfback Bob Pyne. The 5-9, 165-pound senior carried 27 times for 245 yards in last Friday's 28-13 win over Half Moon Bay, and broke one option pitch sweep for a 92-yard touchdown.

Vikings Defeat SH, 3-0

Mills High's football team made a 21-yard third-quarter field goal by Jim Ray stand up for a 3-0 non-league win Saturday over host Sacred Heart at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium.

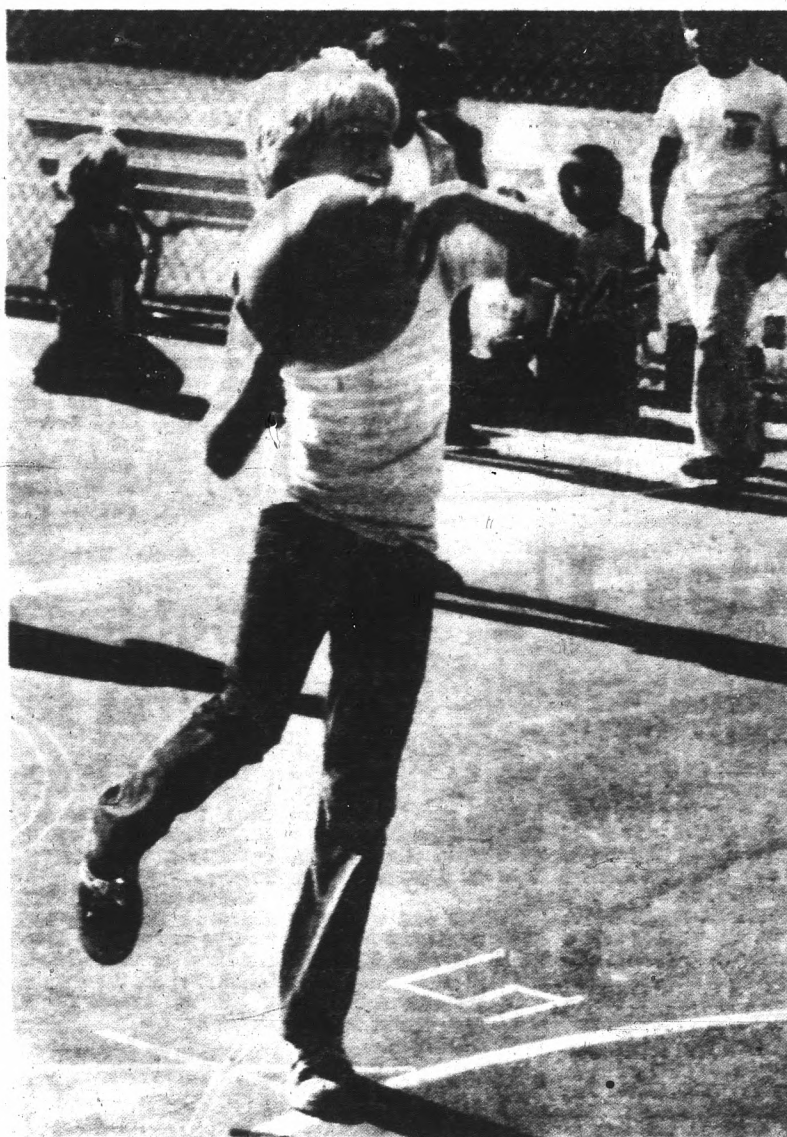

The victory evened the Vikings' record at 1-1. Sacred Heart is 1-2.

In the third period, tackle Rick Sundberg fell on an SH fumble at the Irish 31, the Vikings eventually pushed down to the three before settling for Ray's boot on fourth down.

Midway through the fourth quarter, defensive back Dan Cotter stopped a Sacred Heart drive with an interception and short return to the Viking 42.

Mills then proceeded to run out the clock, ending the game on the SH eight.

The Vikings had a large advantage in total offense. 249 of 89 Of 162 Mills rushing yards. Ron Gianotti picked up 51 on 14 carries.

Water 'Dogs' Win a Pair

College of San Mateo's water polo team picked up two more high-scoring victories Saturday, downing American River 15-10 and the Cal-Davis JVs 15-14.

Steve Sampson and Jerry Breen each scored 13 goals for CSM.

"It's a good thing I'm a defensive specialist or we'd really be in trouble," joked CSM Coach Rich Donner, whose charges host the San Francisco State JCVs Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

GGAC Nabs Top Honors

Leslie Roepke nabbed three first places and Larry Priddy claimed a pair of victories as the Golden Gate Aquatic Club Swim team came away with top honors in the Cabrillo Clippers Class B meet at Half Moon Bay over the weekend.

Leslie recorded class A times in winning both the 200 free and 200 breast, in addition to taking a first place in the 100 back.

1st Half Errors Lead to Jeff Loss

First half mistakes proved costly for Jefferson High's football team in a 33-0 loss to Hogan in Vallejo Saturday night.

Hogan tallied 21 points in the second period and mounted a 27-0 halftime edge.

Jefferson, however, played good defensive ball in the second half, limiting its opponents to one disputed touchdown in the final period.

The Indians are now 0-1-1 in non-league play.

In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school.

The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for free milk for them, it should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy Kathleen Brachna, principal, Bayshore Elementary School and Al La Rocca, principal, Robertson Elementary School will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.
